Copy American Advertising Methods, Wales Advises British

MUST IMPROVE SALES SYSTEM, PRINCE WARNS

Prince Points Way for British Industry in South American Markets

Manchester, England. — (P)—The prince of Wales told British business men in an address today that they would have to copy American sales and advertising methods if they wanted a greater share in the South American market.

He spoke before the chamber of commerce in Free Trade hall in the second "trade clinic" he has conducted since his return from his good will tour to Latin America.

"I am sorry to say that as a nation we are very far behind as regards advertising," the prince said. "That is one of our national characteristics. We do great things and invent great things which are of great value to the world but we never let the world know what we have done."

"Our foreign competitors advertise a great deal and foremost among them are our friends in North America. I have heard a great many Englishmen say that the American way of boosting their goods and the American form of publicity is very vulgar. That is entirely a matter of opinion but the fact remains that our friends in the United States get away with it. To use one of their phrases, they 'can put their goods across'."

Must Imitate U. S.
"If we wish to push our goods better we will have to take a leaf out of their book. Gentlemen, those of you who have been there realize that. And to those who have not I will tell you, you have to go to South America in order to realize the extent to which the influence of the north has penetrated into the industrial and commercial life of the south."

"Let me tell you briefly what are the daily experiences of the business man in South America. When he wakes up in the morning he has his telephone, and his service and implements are of North American make. He gets into his motor car and drives to his office and ninety nine times out of a hundred that motor car is of American make. His office and equipment and everything he uses during the day are up to date efficient articles from the United States. When he has finished his day's work, his mind, if he can afford it, will tend toward relaxation. His radio and gramophone come from North America. So do the films he sees in the movie theatre. And not only do they follow the life and culture in the United States but to make it even easier for him the captions are in his own language. And finally if he moves around the city in which he lives in the dark he'll find every type of manufactured goods attractively advertised and illuminated in every available prominent position in that city."

MAYOR INVITED TO BAND TOURNAMENT

Mayor and Mrs. John Goodland Jr. have been invited to sit in the reviewing stand at Menasha during the grand parade of high school band tournament in that city at 2:30 Friday afternoon. The invitation was extended by N. G. Remmel, mayor of Menasha.

Musician Dies

EUGENE YSAYE

Death Takes Ysaye, Noted As Violinist

Brussels. — (P)—Eugene Ysaye, who broke most of the traditions of the violin to become one of the world's great masters of that instrument, died at 4:30 a. m. today after a long and wearing illness. He would have been 73 years old July 16.

Death came two months after one of the greatest triumphs of his career as a musician, the debut of his opera, "Peter the Miner" written in Wallon dialect, at Liege last March. He himself was unable to attend but Queen Elizabeth, who did go arranged a radio broadcast so he could hear the opera from his bed. The work was given an ovation. Between acts Ysaye spoke into a microphone in his room.

As early as the middle of 1928 Ysaye was suffering from diabetes, phlebitis, and a year later had to undergo amputation of his right leg. He seemed to recover but late in 1930 became ill again. At the time of presentation of his opera he was thought to be on the road to recovery but recently took a sudden turn for the worse from which he never rallied.

Ysaye was married twice, his first wife dying in 1924. His second wife was an American girl 44 years his junior, Miss Annette Dincin, daughter of Dr. Herman Dincin of Brooklyn.

Ysaye's first public appearance after amputation of his leg was as honor guest at a dinner given by King Albert at the royal palace at which President Doumergue of France was present. The French conferred upon him the honor of commander of the legion of honor. About a year before Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians had decorated him with the cross of a grand officer of the order of the Nile, which King Fuad of Egypt had conferred upon him when he was visiting Belgium.

PLAN ARREST OF THREE FOR PART IN DANCE BRAWL

One Man Shot by Deputy Sheriff During Altercation at Hall

Warrants were issued Tuesday in municipal court for the arrest of two Green Bay men, and one from Duck Creek, charging them with assault and battery, disorderly conduct, and resisting an officer at the Oneida dance hall Sunday evening. They were issued for Louis Gegare and Henry Compton of Green Bay, and a Duck Creek man, whose name has not been learned.

Gegare is in St. Vincent's hospital, Green Bay, with a bullet wound in the fleshy part of his arm, received Sunday night when he was shot by John Lappen, Jr., a deputy sheriff and son of Sheriff John Lappen, at the dance hall. The shooting took place when Gegare and a gang of five or six other young men, garbed in overhauls, attacked Lappen while he was directing the parking of cars at the hall, Lappen reported. The gang started to beat up the young deputy for ejecting Gegare from the dance. Lappen had driven the Green Bay man from the hall on two occasions he said.

Young Lappen managed to free one hand, and seizing his revolver shot Gegare in the arm accidentally as the latter attempted to reach for the gun, it was reported to Sheriff Lappen. The bullet entered the arm below the elbow. Gegare was taken to Seymour for medical attention, and later was removed to the Green Bay hospital.

Appleton Man Pleads Guilty to Charge of Reckless Driving

Walter Langlotz, route 4, Appleton, charged with reckless driving, was fined $50 and costs, and application was made for revocation of his driver's license when he pleaded guilty before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday morning.

He was given until Tuesday afternoon to pay the fine. Langlotz was brought into court on a warrant issued Monday on complaint of Sheriff John Lappen, who struck a pole on Highway 47, which Langlotz' car had broken off, Sheriff Lappen was in pursuit of Langlotz when the crash occurred.

Langlotz, it was charged, failed to remove the obstruction from the road. Sheriff Lappen's machine hit the pole, and went into a ditch. The radiator was damaged and the top crushed.

SIX PERSONS GET JOBS FROM BUREAU

121 Now Registered With Organization, W. L. Lyons Reports

Six persons have been given jobs through the new City Employment bureau, which opened in the office of W. L. Lyons, poor commissioner, Thursday. Two of the jobs, one of them factory work and the other four were temporary.

At the present time there are 121 persons registered at the bureau. Mr. Lyons, pointed out this morning that a request for practically any type of worker can be filled from this list, and he urges persons who need workers, even for two or three hours, to make use of the bureau.

"If this list is to be a stagnant thing, it cannot help the unemployment situation," he said. "We want it to be an active list, with the public calling on the bureau for help any time of the day."

He particularly urged housewives who need assistants for spring housecleaning to give their work to some of the 121 registered persons.

DISCOVER MENASHA MAN BROKE PAROLE

Ernst Gohre, Charged With Car Theft, to Be Sentenced This Week

Ernst Gohre, Menasha, held by Appleton authorities on a charge of stealing a car from the parking lot of the Central Motor Car Co. Saturday night, was on parole for passing a worthless check on April 5, 1930, it was learned Monday afternoon when he was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg.

Judge Berg indicated Tuesday that Gohre might be sentenced within the next few days on the old charge, to which he pleaded guilty. April 16, 1930, in municipal court. He was paroled to Carl Gelbke of the West Clark Nurseries, Appleton. Gohre was arrested on April 4, 1930, by Appleton police on complaint of Harry Bliss of the Appleton Army store, who charged Gohre gave him a worthless check for $65.

Gohre was captured about 11 o'clock last Saturday night by William Denstedt a dance hall supervisor, on Nicolet-blvd., Neenah. Denstedt, accompanied by Sam Hillowitz and Melvin Grootemont, went in search for the machine after it was missed at the parking lot.

A 22-calibre revolver was found on the floor of the car in which Gohre was being brought to the Appleton police station. It is believed the gun dropped from his pocket during a tussle which took place in the car while he was being brought here. He denies owing the gun.

Briand Election To Presidency Of France Believed Certain

EXPERTS SEE HIM VICTOR ON EARLY BALLOT

Politicians Think Doumer Cannot Hold Off Defeat Beyond Second Ballot

Paris (P)—Aristide Briand, veteran French foreign minister, seemed slated for election to the French presidency by the national assembly upon the first or second ballot tomorrow.

Friends of M. Briand and of Paul Doumer, the president of the senate and his principal opponent, engaged today in wide canvassing in an effort to secure votes for their leaders but it was not believed generally that Senator Doumer could stave off beyond the second ballot the absolute majority necessary for Briand's election.

The candidacy of Jean Hennessy, wealthy French distiller, a member of the number of deputies and former minister, was not considered in political circles as affecting the situation. He and other possible dark horses, however, may poll enough votes on the first ballot to prevent either M. Briand or Doumer attaining a majority.

The Paris press, largely predicting M. Briand's election, argued that so shrewd and experienced a political strategist would not have consented to yesterday's announcement of his candidacy unless after careful calculation of all the elements in the race he believed himself certain to win.

The French presidential elections are not popular voting tests in the sense of an election for a president of the United States. The French president is elected by an absolute majority of votes, cast in separate urns, by the 500 members of the senate and chamber of deputies united in a "national assembly."

NEWSREEL PORTRAYS FASCIST INITIATION

Capture of Francis Crowley, "Two-gun" Slayer, Also Shown

The initiation of 10,000 boy Fascists on Rome's 2,684th birthday by C. C. De Witt, director of the Appleton Post-Crescent, was shown in a newsreel which will open at the Appleton theatre Wednesday.

The reel also shows the capture of Francis Crowley, "two-gun" slayer, in a desperate battle with armed police, the opening of the annual hillside parade at West Green Day, and a number of other scenes. The completion of colonial exposition at Vincennes, France. Another part of the film shows workmen at the base of Niagara Falls braving the screaming rapids to build a bridge at the Cascade Rapids, and another the breaking of all rail records by the world's fastest train.

New paragraphs present the Lord Mayor of Liverpool paying a call, a group of new baby bears in Germany, and a modern Robinson Crusoe after six months of exile.

The feature for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be Charlie Chaplin in "City Lights."

LAST EXTEMPORANEOUS CONTEST IS THURSDAY

The student public speaking program of Appleton high school will culminate for the year with the valley extemporaneous contest at Sheboygan high school Thursday afternoon.

Vernon Beckman, winner of the Bolton-Roth extemporaneous contest at the high school, will represent the Appleton school. Nine high schools in the Fox river valley will be represented, including Marinette, East and West Green Day, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Oconto, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Appleton.

This ends the season of declamatory work in both local and valley contests, intramural and interschool debate, and oratorical work. Simon Sigman, who won first place in the local William Heles Oratorical contest, finished fourth in the valley meet.

in those cities, but did not burn them. With cavalry, infantry, tanks and machine gun squads patrolling the streets of Madrid the capital was restored to tranquillity during the night, but not before 10 churches, convents, monasteries and other ecclesiastical buildings had been burned to the ground while the mobs held off firemen and prevented their fighting the flames.

A nationwide checkup showed 18 church buildings destroyed by fire and perhaps ten more badly damaged but not burned. Inmates of the buildings in every case fled, and while a few monks and priests were beaten there were remarkably few casualties among them. Nuns in almost every case were respected by the crowd. Estimates on the number of religious workers fleeing Madrid alone ran as high as 50,000.

Efforts to estimate the physical damage were mere guesswork, but

COMPLETE JURY FOR KIRKLAND MURDER TRIAL

First Two Counts of Indictment in Gary Case Are Dismissed

Valparaiso, Ind. (P)—After 32 men and women had been challenged or excused, a jury of 12 men was impaneled today to retry Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves, his companion at a Gary liquor party.

Prosecutor John Underwood immediately dismissed the first two counts of the indictment, charging murder by blows with the fist and a blunt instrument. Opening statements followed.

Dismissal of these counts leaves the trial hinging on the charges of murder by rape and attempted rape. The jurors are: A. W. Fleming, 64, laborer; Norman Ashton, 57, farmer; George McVicker, 57, carpenter; John Bell, 50, farmer; Andrew Jensen, 45, farmer; Henry Casbon, 25, metal worker; U. S. Morrow, 64, farmer; Ernest Nelson, 38, merchant; Robert Davidson, 61, retired; Robert Brady, 38, laborer; Claude Walters, 39, railroad agent; Marion Brownbridge, 29, night watchman.

Judge Grant Compacker took under advisement a defense motion to have the jury inspect the David Thompson home and Christoff lunch room in Gary.

The liquor party preceding Arlene's death was at Thompson's home. He, too, is under indictment for her murder. The lunch room played an important role in the first trial. It was here that Kirkland, Thompson, three other youths and Arlene went for sandwiches and from this automobile ride, Arlene was returned dead.

IDLE GARDEN PLOTS BEING SOUGHT FOR CITY'S UNEMPLOYED

Men Can Raise Food Products for Families, Committee Points Out

Raising of garden products this summer by unemployed persons so they may have foodstuffs during the winter has been suggested by the Citizens Unemployment committee as a means of helping Appleton families. A. F. Klezlein is chairman of the committee in charge of the project.

The plan of the committee is to have unemployed men who wish to work gardens and who have none of their own, to register with the city poor commissioner, William Lyons, at the city hall. People who have areas which might be used for gardens and who are not working them also have been asked to register so arrangements can be made to have the unemployed men secure and work plots.

The city will plow areas large enough to make plowing necessary, it is said. Men are expected to spade the smaller plots. Whatever other the city can give also will be arranged for.

Pointing out that if a man can work a garden and raise enough potatoes to last during the winter months, his food problem will be reduced, the unemployment committee is asking cooperation of everyone in the city. Garden trucks and vegetables of many kinds can easily be raised on plots now idle, it is said, and men will have an opportunity to both work and help provide for families.

A controversy arose between the two firms shortly after the completion of the building, when architects approved of certain items in plans. The case was submitted to arbitration, and the contract price reduced.

Increased compensation for board members should not be voted "until they ask for it themselves."

"There is not a better school system existing in the United States than that in Milwaukee, which functions under $100-a-year school board," he said. "The people of Milwaukee, the board members themselves, and officials of the city are not asking for this proposition."

"Eighty members of the assembly are not from Milwaukee and it is not fair to the city for the majority of us to pass on measures," said Assemblyman George J. Towns, Milwaukee, said the speaker failed to appreciate the fact that all Milwaukee was well represented in the assembly.

"At present a member of the board serves one term and then steps out," he said. "If you are going to do justice to the city of Milwaukee and its school system you must pay the members salaries so that they may take more interest in their work."

"Kill 'Anti-Freeze' Bill" One of the most bitter fights in the senate this session came to an apparent end today when the upper house killed a bill which would have prohibited the manufacture and sale of "anti-freeze" compounds containing methanol. The vote was 15 to 13.

Simultaneously the senate adopted a substitute amendment to require the coloring of wood alcohols sold in Wisconsin. The coloring will be bright red and warning labels will be placed on containers.

By a vote of 21 to 6 the senate rejected a proposal to permit the department of agriculture and markets to take $255,000 from their regular appropriation to be used for the state fair. The senate must now consider a bill to appropriate outright this sum.

The senate voted 19 to 7 to appropriate $10,000 to a special committee to investigate tax delinquent and cut over lands of northern Wisconsin. The special committee, consisting of three senators and four assemblymen, will be named as a result of the adoption of a resolution introduced by Gen. J. H. Carroll, Glendale.

Another measure which was approved by the senate was Sen. J. S. Cashman's bill to prohibit state, city or county superintendents from being peculiarly interested in any travel tour for teachers. The senate refused that portion of the bill which would have prevented these officials from sponsoring travel tours.

The Schmieg resolution to appoint a special committee to investigate the feasibility of a new penal institution for lesser offenders was killed in the senate after having successfully weathered assembly opposition.

300 TAKE PART IN PLANTING PROGRAM AT REHFELDT FARM

Pupils of Outagamie-co Rural Schools Plant Tiny Tree Seedlings

BY W. F. WINSEY

Mackville—Three hundred people inclusive of pupils of rural schools, parents, members of school boards, and teachers, took part in the tree planting demonstration conducted on the farm of Frank Rehfeldt Monday afternoon by County Agent G. A. Sell. The pupils, supervised by the teachers and members of school boards, planted 300 White Pine, Norway Pine and Jack Pine, seedlings in accordance with instructions of the county agent presented as an introduction to the demonstration.

The pupils planted the seedlings Monday, on a sand ridge that was used last year for a tree planting demonstration by themselves. On account of the drought last summer a number of the seedlings either did not take root or were dried up. The pupils put a fresh seedling in each of the vacant places in the rows and removed weeds from about the tiny trees. They uprooted the weeds so the seedlings would not be robbed of moisture by the weeds.

In planting a seedling, the boys and girls pressed a spade into the sand the full length of the blade. By moving the handle of the spade forward and back in the same line, carefully, they made an opening in the sand large enough to admit the roots of the seedling without bending or doubling the roots. When the seedling was in place, the boy or girl handling the spade lifted the spade and lightly pressed the moist sand about the roots.

Pupils taking part in the demonstration were from schools in towns of Grand Chute, Center, Vandenberg and Buchanan. It was one of a series of five tree planting demonstrations being held in Outagamie county this week. The schedule for the balance of the series is as follows: Tuesday morning, Burns' plot, one mile southwest of Stephenville, schools in the towns of Ellington, Greenville and south Bovina participating; Tuesday afternoon, Jess Lathrop's plot, one mile south of New London on the county line road, pupils of the schools of the towns of Dale, Hortonville, Liberty, Maple Creek and Deer Creek taking part.

Wednesday morning at Ray Gomin's farm, five miles north of Sheleton County Trunk B, the pupils of the schools of the towns of Maine, north Bovina and Cicero will plant trees and on Wednesday afternoon at the Rev. A. A. Visser's plot, five miles north of Freedom on County Trunk B for schools in towns of Oneida, Seymour, Osborn, Freedom and Kaukauna.

TRIBUNAL HAS RIGHT TO SET UP PROCEDURE

Supreme Court Rules It Has Right to Regulate Court Practices

cial power or a least that it never was considered to be a purely or distinctly legislative power."

"The court stressed the need for cooperation between the various branches of government when constitutional limitations prohibited an exchange of powers. In the field dealt with by the controversial section, the court said, 'There has been a demand for reform.... The coordinate branches of the government should not abdicate to permit others to infringe upon such powers as are exclusively committed to them.... (but) there should be no generous cooperation as will tend to keep the law responsive to the needs of society.'"

Mr. McGovern, in his argument on the law before the court, said it reduces about 80 chapters of the statute from the status of statute law to that of rules of court changeable in the discretion of the tribunal. The act also involves the court to assume powers exercised by the legislature for 80 years, he said.

"On its very face," he said, "it places the almost transcendent power with which it seeks to endow this court in both it and the state legislature concurrently."

He said the law was needless because the state already ranks high for the excellence of its code on these subjects.

"In the view that regulation of pleading, practice and procedure in courts is a legislative and not a judicial function, the courts themselves have acquiesced for at least three quarters of a century," he said.

He contended that the power to make laws cannot be delegated by the constitution and that nowhere in the constitution is there any such authority.

William E. Fisher and Frank T. Boesel, Milwaukee attorneys, who acted as counsel for the advisory committee, argued that the section was constitutional.

"Courts are entrusted with the decision of the most momentous questions of property, civil rights and liberty itself embodied in our substantive law," he said. "Every adjudication made with respect thereto fixes and determines the nature extent and scope of that law."

"In these vital matters of substance, the supreme court is indeed concededly supreme. But it would appear that in matters of procedure, the routine of practice, the details of the operation of the mechanism provided for the enforcement of these substantive rights, namely in the domain of the adjective law, the courts are not to be trusted, and any attempt to reinvest them with this power is to be looked at askance."

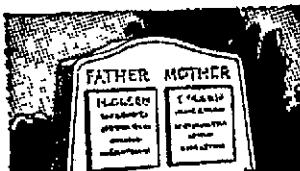

"Such an anachronism is not in harmony with the spirit of the times."

"ARTISTIC MEMORIALS" 918 N. Lawrence Street

COLOR BEAUTY IN BATHROOM MODERN TREND

Remodelers Arrange to Put in Additional Lav-
atories

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles discussing the building situation as it is applied to Appleton. These articles were prepared in collaboration with the building contractors and dealers in building supplies and fixtures.)

"Build or remodel for color beauty in plumbing fixtures and the bathroom is the slogan of dealers in plumbing supplies. It has been only the past few years that decorative beauty was extended to the bathroom, Appleton plumbers say.

Bathrooms in old and new residences no longer preserve the cold demeanor of a laboratory, but have become beauty spots enriched by colorful and attractive fixtures.

The latest creations in bathroom fixtures can now be installed in old as well as new residences at prices which have been standardized to suit almost every pocketbook. There has been a reduction of approximately 5 per cent in the price of fixtures, dealers say. Copper pipes have been reduced from 5 to 10 per cent.

Colored Fixtures
Fixtures are available in colored enamel or vitreous china with its indestructible glaze. Shades include russet, lavender, spring green, horizon blue, West Point blue, old ivory, autumn brown and many color combinations.

Many bathroom combinations—groups composed of fixtures selected for harmony and usefulness, as well as with a view to combined cost, have been designed by manufacturers.

Shower baths and "built-in" bath tubs are becoming more in demand from year to year, dealers say. Many home owners do not feel their houses are complete without a shower bath.

There also is a growing demand for additional lavatories in the home. Many people remodeling their homes insist on having a lavatory in the basement. Some insist on having a lavatory in the bedroom, in the kitchen, or small bathroom just off the main hall. Others desire two lavatories in one bathroom to relieve the rush hour congestion.

The Floors
Many bathrooms are being equipped with tile floors to harmonize with the color scheme of the walls and fixtures. Literature is being furnished by dealers which outlines methods of creating harmony in the bathroom even to the extent of matching towels and other accessories.

Many "work savers" have been designed in plumbing, especially in the kitchen sink. Duostrainers and similar attachments have been added to the sink to relieve the busy housewife, saving steps, time and simplifying kitchen work.

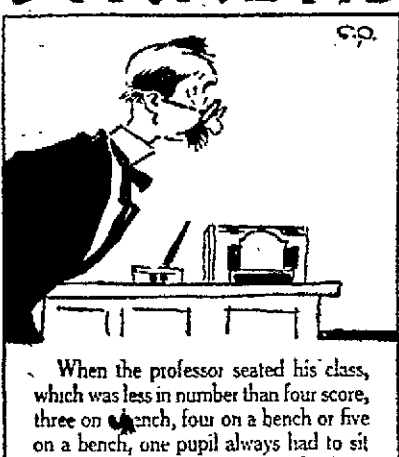

Some sinks have been equipped with electric dish washers and driers, by which a large number of dishes can be washed and dried in a few minutes.

The hot water heater is another new development of the plumbing system. These heaters have been designed to provide hot water for bathing purposes during the summer months when the heating plant is shut down. A large quantity of water can be heated in a short time.

SONATE IS DEDICATED TO IRVING SCHWERKE

The name of Irving Schwerke, Parisian music critic, formerly of Appleton, has appeared frequently on concert programs in America and abroad recently, as the "Sonate Transatlantique" of Alexander Tansman, Polish composer, is dedicated to Mr. Schwerke. The work is an European musician's reaction to, and adaptation of, motifs from American jazz. A part of it was played in Appleton by Joo Iturbi last winter. Mr. Schwerke, who was recently named officer d'Academie by the French Government for his work as a critic and friend of French music, is writing a critical study in French on Mr. Tansman's work.

Professor Proves That Hypnotism Is Possible

BY JOHN ROSS FRAMPTON, JR.

Mesmerism, animal magnetism, hypnotism—mysterious words that recall tales of beautiful girls held in the coils of evil magicians, words that call to mind the daring story of Trilby and Svengali, that so shocked all the nice people in the gay nineties, words that apply to a recent experiment in the psychology class room of Lawrence college.

In the yellow light from curtained windows students of abnormal psychology were grouped irregularly around a low cot, some of them on backs of chairs; yet there was no disorder, only an atmosphere of electric tension. On the cot lay a girl student, perfectly relaxed and still, her eyes focused on a bright metal ball which Dr. J. H. Griffiths held over her forehead. There were no mystic passes, only soothing instructions to remain still, to relax as much as possible, and to keep the polished nickel ball in focus. When the subject confessed that her eyes were very tired she was told to close them, and the professor murmured in a low voice, "Eyes are tight shut now . . . tight shut . . . going to go to sleep . . . tight shut . . . tight shut . . . go to sleep . . . relax . . . you will go to sleep now, but you will still hear my voice . . . going to go to sleep now . . . you will be asleep but you will do just what I tell you . . ."

The girl breathed regularly, her face expressionless, while Dr. Griffiths continued slowly to speak. At his command, when he had counted ten her right arm rose and remained standing out rigid. It was evident that a good hypnotic subject had been found at last, after only partially successful experiments with two men students.

Acid Test Reached

But the period was nearly over. "When you have done as I tell you, you will wake up. I am going to count ten, and then you will repeat the Lord's prayer, your eyes will open, and you will wake up . . ."

This was the acid test; if the girl did not smile now, it would be evident that she was thoroughly hypnotized. But in spite of titters among the onlookers, no movement whatever disturbed the tranquil expression of the subject's face.

"One . . . two . . . three . . . four . . . five . . . six . . ."

As the professor counted slowly the students were thinking with regret of stories they had heard about experiments in former years, when there was more time. One of the best debaters in the college had proved a fine subject and Dr. Griffiths used him to demonstrate post-hypnotic suggestion. While still asleep he was told that after opening his eyes and awakening he would go to the radiator and recite the alphabet. This he did as instructed, shuffling as though in a stupor, across the room. The year before, he performed similarly with the Lord's Prayer.

Three years ago another subject, an Appleton girl, gave an even more remarkable demonstration of post-hypnotic suggestion when told that she would not be able to remember her name until she had taken a drink of water. Awakened, she went almost at once to the sink for water, but would not use the dirty glass that was offered her.

Even when most of the class left for chapel she continued to hover near the sink in a dazed, uneasy condition, and did not secure release from the post-hypnotic state until several students took her downstairs to get a drink from the bubbler.

"Seven . . . eight . . . nine . . . ten . . . you will now repeat the Lord's Prayer, your eyes will open, and you will wake up . . ."

The hush of expectancy in the class room was so complete that the ticking of the professor's watch could be plainly heard. The reclining girl's throat twitched. She moistened her lips and began to mumble softly, only an occasional word clearly audible:

"Our Father . . . in heaven . . . be thy name . . ."

Abruptly she blinked and sat up, her eyes wide open. It was evident that she heard someone's loud comment: "She didn't know the rest!"

EVERY BUILDING IN WISCONSIN

PROPERTY owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

To establish rates in keeping with individual conditions requires careful measurement and estimate of the fire hazards in practically every commercial building.

Consider the size of that task—with details of construction, occupancy, protection and exposure to be recorded. Even then one has but an incomplete idea of the service involved in establishing fire insurance rates.

Through the inspection and rating organization in your state, supports a free inspection service. This inspection organization is constantly advising property owners and communities as to specifications for new buildings or changes in old ones—the installation of fire protective devices—community fire prevention programs—and fire safety activities. All of this service is free.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

Engineering Standards— Underwriters' Laboratory Tests

Engineering standards published by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, also researches and tests of Underwriters' Laboratories pertaining to the strength and usefulness of materials and devices, are available to the inspection organization.

Should an owner desire to improve his property where standard conditions do not already prevail, information showing him how to do it will be supplied without charge through his insurance agent or broker.

FEDERAL NIGHT RIDERS

Four young men were arrested by dry agents at Antigo for alleged violation of the Volstead act.

They were not brought before the federal court commissioner there nor any other nearby commissioner who has authority to hear evidence, bind over for trial and fix bond, but were whisked away in custody nearly 150 miles to Milwaukee.

When their attorney, Mr. Plantz, followed on and sought an interview with them in the office of the prohibition administrator, he was summarily, and with threats and profane language, thrown out.

Such conduct suggests the purpose of being as cruel and vindictive, as ruthlessly oppressive as possible, in the enforcement of a given law.

Taking men 150 miles away from their homes so that they would be under the great expense of transporting witnesses that distance, paying bondsmen and attorneys to travel that far, or that friends and relatives could not find them, is the kind of conduct that invariably accompanies the iron rule of a miserable absolutism.

When done purposely it is nothing less than the swaggering insolence of the bully and the bulldozer, indifferent to and disdainful of the common rights of all citizens.

It is an ugly and shame-faced attack upon a basic and fortunate principle of government, the flower of all liberty, freedom from oppressive measures or steps designed solely to treat one with malice, spite or resentment.

Spattering this country over with cases of this cold insensibility to the fact that the arrested man is always entitled to fair hearing, counsel, the right to freedom on bail pending trial, and all of this at as cheap an expense as possible, has been one of the main factors in bringing the prohibition department into the disrepute it enjoys.

And still people will wonder, after exhibitions of this sort, why jurors turn in undisguised disgust from evidence offered from such a source, fearful of its pollution.

VEST POCKET DIPLOMAS

As we have our diminutive watches, automobiles and golf courses, it is not surprising that this tendency to miniature things should invade the educational field.

New York City has decided to issue high school diplomas in vest pocket size instead of the usual fourteen by seventeen inch parchment which has thrilled past generations.

Obviously the change in size is to reduce cost in the thirty-thousand diplomas to be issued this year. There is no indication that the board of education believed the shrunken size denotes a correspondingly diminutive education.

For the school or college graduate it would have its advantages. The old style vellum could not be properly displayed unless its proud possessor acquired a professional office where it could be framed and hung on the wall for the inspection of admiring clients. Usually it laid, tightly rolled, at the bottom of some trunk.

Now he may always have it in his pocket, like his driver's license, ready to confound any doubting Thomas as to the quality of his intelligence. Or properly hung on the coat lapel in an attractive miniature frame, it could serve as a ready means of introduction and relieve the embryonic Einstein of considerable embarrassment in explaining his good qualities to a prospective employer.

A HERO AND HIS MOTHER

Hero worship is often a misguided emotion, but in Bryan Untiedt we have a real hero and one at an age, thirteen, when startled eyes may drink to their full all the virtuous visions of a wondrous world.

He has been cheerily welcomed into the home of the President and there met the great and elect of the land. In addition he has clasped the hand of the king of Siam, one of the few remaining autocrats, so that Bryan does not have to depend on stories or legend for his acquaintance with royalty.

Bryan Untiedt has within his childish frame: the finest marvel of the Maker, that unselfishness or blindness to one's own interests which exposes itself in care for the well-being of others, all coupled with a mighty level head and a knowledge of how to use it.

It was that disposition that kept him up night and day during the sub-zero blizzard, slapping, rubbing, dancing and exhorting the other children so that Morpheus who presented to them the tender rest of sleep which meant certain death, could not claim them for his own.

But Bryan's mother furnished an explanation of Bryan when she declined for him one of those fat Hollywood contracts. Said she:

"We do not want him to live on the honor of the nation, we want him to be a real man through his own efforts."

Almost invariably when you find a real man who makes himself such through his own efforts and you seek the cause you may readily discover it. He had a parent like Mrs. Untiedt.

AUSTRALIAN TROUBLES

Australia, affected acutely by present world conditions and brought to her knees particularly because of the slump in wheat and wool prices, nevertheless cannot blame all her troubles on those conditions.

Her main difficulty is akin to that in Florida, a wild over-expansion, to which she has added another critical trouble by over-expending in needless directions.

The country has been subjected to heavy expenditures for pensions, relief and unemployment and the maintenance of an unnecessarily large force of government employees. The ease with which pensions may be obtained has undermined natural habits of thrift and created a dependence on government subsidy which is detrimental to productive enterprise.

The legal gold reserve of Australia provided as security for its notes of issue amounts to $75,000,000. It is now proposed to use fifty millions of this to meet maturing obligations in England. Should this be done it will practically mean the abandonment of the gold standard.

Despite the serious effects which might result from the dissipation of the gold reserve, additional inflation was proposed by the fiduciary currency bill. This provided for an issue of fiduciary currency to the amount of ninety million dollars for more relief for wheat growers and unemployment. The senate refused to ratify the bill, which is an indication that the country is coming to its senses.

Steps to control extravagance must be taken before Australia can merge from its crisis. Its position is similar to that of other countries which have already recognized the necessity of such action. The Australian population has too substantial a background to permit its present predicament to seriously affect the sound political principles by which the democracy has successfully functioned in the past.

FRANCE PROTESTS

Read the following few lines as a sample of what is published in the editorial columns of the American press:

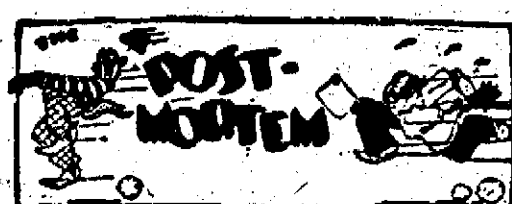

"France has profited greatly from the late war in riches, territory, and in influence; she hopes to profit just as much or more by the next war; it is for that she is prepared and it is for that she seeks an occasion. . . . France has our money and she has the money of Germany. She is triumphantly seated upon a pyramid of gold, extorted from the nations we have vanquished in response to her frantic appeal. She wishes not to dominate or destroy, but to dominate and destroy!"

The imbecility of such expressions is unescapable. And when they first appear, they sound like lies; but after such observations are repeated again and again in numerous papers, they begin to take on some vestiges of fact. They are, as you see, couched in short, terse sentences, easy to remember. And their readers are not always capable of deciding these matters for themselves! American films likewise present a false picture of the French people. A swindler or bon vivant is generally a Frenchman. The couple, the faithful wife, and the female spy are all French women. When these same pictures are sent to Paris, these same characters are depicted as South Americans.

If no protest against these caricatures, the suspicions of the Americans are confirmed. They incline to an acceptance of that which is sensational and bizarre, and when the French people are portrayed as they really are, it is not agreeable to them.

On the other hand, some French madcaps write books dangerous to our interests on the pretext of defending European civilization. The writers frequently know nothing of America, or of the English language, and deal with the United States very discourteously.

There is almost a vogue in such literature at present. And the people who write these treatises fondly imagine that they are publishing real and helpful volumes. Such unstudied utterances as easily intensify all these mutual misunderstandings, those described in which both sides are wrong. —Paris (France)—Lo Maim.

They mark her "one hundred" in spelling to show

That she's mentally quick and alert. But it's mother's opinion the child is too slow In learning the evils of dirt.

And she says to teach spelling must easier be Than training a youngster to wash up for tea.

Her behavior in school is perfection they say. Which is pleasing, of course, to us all. But she still hangs her head and goes running away

When company comes in to call. And the curtsy she drops is so stinging and slight That her mother's afraid she will never do right.

The teachers in school say she reads very well And remembers whatever she's told. She can name the far land where the Esquimaux dwell.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 15, 1906

The seventeenth annual convention of the Northwestern Band association was to convene in Appleton Sunday, June 24, with at least 44 bands in attendance.

A marriage license had been issued to Herbert S. Harwood, Manhattan, Mont., and Lella W. Schlosser, Appleton.

Gustave Keller was elected vice president of the Wisconsin Retail Jewelers' association at the organization meeting the preceding day in Milwaukee.

The senior class of Lawrence university was to be entertained at dinner that evening by Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Plantz.

Mrs. J. Austin Hawes returned the previous night from an extended trip of nearly four weeks through the south and west.

George McGilton left that morning for Miden, Louisiana, where he was to spend several weeks with his sister, Mrs. W. L. Fitzgerald.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson was traveling in Europe.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 10, 1921

Republican leader Mondell announced in the house at Washington that day that because of the great need for economy no appropriation bill providing for the erection of new postoffices and federal buildings would be passed at the session of congress. This indicated that Appleton would have to wait for another year before money would be appropriated to enlarge the federal building here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boldt, 1222 W. Eighth-st., entertained a number of friends and relatives at a dancing party the previous Saturday evening.

Miss Catherine Stip, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Stip, 1075 Harris-st., and Mr. H. Kettnerhoven, son of John Kettnerhoven, 414 Walnut-st., were married that morning in St. Mary church.

A number of friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Heavens, 517 Madison-st., the preceding Monday evening in honor of their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary.

Harry G. Cornerford, Chicago, and Miss Luella Valentine, Appleton, were married recently at Waupun, Wis.

Application for a marriage license was made the previous day by Walter Brocker and Rose Hoffman, Appleton.

RHEUMATISM REMEDY DISCOVERED IN FRANCE

From the letters I deduce that not so many of our readers who have chronic arthritis are biting these days on the mail-order rheumatism cure that purports to be the discovery of an old army surgeon in India or some such mysterious place. It seems that as respectable merchants become more and more particular about the company they keep, the old army surgeon, as worked on by the subscribers thru the kindly assistance of gyp publishers, is losing caste.

This rheumatism remedy I am bringing to the attention of sufferers can't be bought or procured by a layman, so you see it is not a nostrum. I am expelling it, it couldn't be taken or administered by a layman even if he were able to procure it. Oh, you might have known there would be some catch in it, the minute you lapped the title. I'm a great hand at getting my Scotch readers hopes up and then dashing them by announcing that the treatment can be had only from your regular physician.

Four French physicians report in one of the leading Paris medical journals a case of progressive chronic deforming rheumatism, whatever that may be, in which subcutaneous injection of an extremely good result produced extraordinarily good results. Following that experimental case the French doctors used the treatment on a dozen similar cases and obtained similar results in all of them. The immediate results of the treatment, which are manifest after the first few injections, are a feeling of well being, increased facility of movement and greater flexibility of the affected joints.

This amelioration uniformly appears in twenty or thirty minutes after the injection and lasts twelve hours. It is similar to the effect of insulin injections in diabetes, that is, the remedy is effective only so long as the dose acts. But, just as the insulin treatment of diabetes has a cumulative effect which is indirect, the real object of treatment and may be regarded as a gain in general metabolism, so in this parathyroid extract treatment of long standing cases of arthritis the beneficial help is, and for the same reason—helps to improve the patient's general metabolism.

Thus, like insulin treatment, whether for diabetes or for mere under-nutrition, we must regard this parathyroid treatment of advanced, disabling arthritis as therapeutic encouragement. If a little is good, more is better—but it requires the skill and knowledge of the physician to know how little or how much insulin to administer to one with under-nutrition or hyperglycemia or how little or how much parathyroid extract treatment of long standing cases of arthritis—helps to improve the patient's general metabolism.

I wish I could give more information about this treatment, but I have no more information to give to readers. You have to get it from your physician if at all. Ask him about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cod Liver Oil

Is cod liver oil a tonic or in any way beneficial for adults? (A. W.)

Answer—It is as beneficial for adults as it is for infants or children. The infants less than a year old need it most. Many adults with chronic sinusitis derive benefit from cod liver oil.

Hypodermic Injection of Morphine

Your opinion of twilight sleep and its effect on the child. (C. R. G.)

Answer—So-called "twilight sleep," "twilight sleep" hypodermic medication and the dope commonly given to condemned criminals to enable them to walk indifferently to their doom, is all the same—morphine and scopalamine. These drugs were tried out in obstetrics some 30 years ago in this country, and generally discarded as being too dangerous, particularly to the child. Then 15 years ago it was "revived" by a magazine, as some new discovery made in Germany. Certainly the question whether such drugs should be used in any circumstances is strictly one for the attending physician to consider, and it is no business of the layman's.

Happy To Oblige

Please tell me what you suggested for an itchy rash on the shins and elbows, and oblige. (B. H.)

Answer—I suggest that you consult a physician.

Lime Water

Please tell me what effect lime water has on health. I take three teaspoons daily for no other reason but just the notion that it is good for me. (C. W.)

Answer—It is a mild alkali or antacid. It has no particular effect on health. You get as much lime in a glass of milk as you do in the lime water you take.

Cut Your Remedy

Please send me the smoking cure. I have a son 16 years old who is a heavy smoker. (Mrs. M.)

Answer—Take a walk down by the creek and cut a willow switch. It is absurd to permit a child like that to feel that he needs treatment. He needs the rod. That is, provided his parents have not been negligent. Long before a boy or girl reaches that age good parents should exact a solemn pledge against smoking before 21.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE long canal wound 'round and 'round and soon the happy Tynmites found that there were many things to see of interest to them all. As Clowney leaned far out to eye another boat just passing by, wee Scouty shouted, "Hey! Look out, or you will take a fall."

"Oh, I'm not scared. I'll hang on tight. Imagine what a funny sight I'd be if I should topple in, and have to swim to shore. As long as this craft stays afloat I'm going to stick right to the boat. I've had a lot of tumbles and I don't want any more."

Along the canal shore there stood a lot of houses, propped on wood. "This must be just like Venice," exclaimed Copsy, with a grin. "I wonder what the homes are like. When we're back on the shore, let's hike down to this spot and peek at one and maybe walk right in."

The Travel Man said, "You have been in Chinese homes, so why go in the one you're looking at right now? I think they're all alike. When we get back to shore, my son, I have a plan for other fun. We'll leave the boat and start out when you're ready for a hike."

In 'bout an hour they went ashore and walked back into town once more. Two Chinese men came down the street and Clowney cried, "Look there! Each one has poles upon his back. One follows in the other's tracks." And then the Tynmites noticed that the poles held one large chair.

"Twice covered, like a little coop. Wee Scouty let out one big whoop and said, 'Come on, we'll ride in that. They'll let us, if we pay.' The Travel Man said, 'That was what I'd planned for you. As like as not, you'll love it.' So the bunch hopped in and soon were on their way" (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

of political writers, who daily come into contact with the great and near great, was handed a new experience when Japanese royalty came as visitors.

That very brief press conference which His Imperial Highness Prince Takamatsu gave the writers the afternoon of his arrival will linger long in their memory.

It was an extraordinary affair, and so far removed from the usual procedures that it left the news gatherers a bit up in the air.

The meeting took place in the hall of the swanky Mayflower hotel, the home of Vice President Curtis, and the Prince's abode while in the capital.

The Prince and Princess, under escort of the Japanese Ambassador Otsuichi, Richard Southgate of the state department, ranking United States naval and army officers and other officials were on their way to the White House to pay their respects to the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Prince Answers 'Yes'

As the party reached waiting elevators on the eighth floor, His Imperial Highness paused. Everything had been arranged beforehand. An interpreter replied to the questions which one of the newspapermen asked for the group.

The Prince was in formal morning dress. The Princess, smiling, stood in the background, wearing a blue frock and flowered hat.

Three questions were asked.

No. 1.—Is His Imperial Highness happy to be in the American capital?

Answer: "Yes."

No. 2.—Is His Imperial Highness favorably impressed with the United States?

Answer: "Yes."

No. 3.—Is His Imperial Highness looking forward to his visit to Canada?

Answer: "Yes."

A Short Interview

Each of the three questions was communicated by the interpreter to His Imperial Highness. The interpreter made the replies.

It took about two minutes. When the last "yes" had been given, the Prince directed the glance to the waiting elevators. The newspapermen stepped back and the royal party entered.

It was a striking tableau in the hotel corridor. On one side stood the tall, fair and comparatively heavy men of the occidental newspaper world. On the other stood the suave and delicate Japanese.

And Ambassador Debutchi, ruddy countenance and smiling encouragement at both parties, appeared as the spirit which would bring East and West together.

PETAIN'S APPOINTMENT

On May 12, 1917, General Petain was appointed commander-in-chief of the French armies operating on the French front. General Foch succeeded Petain as chief of staff of the ministry of war.

General Petain, in a statement on the day of his appointment, urged America to send as many men as possible as soon as they could be transported to France, to be put into immediate training under French commanders, but to maintain their autonomy as American units.

This day in the World War also commemorates the capture of Bullecourt by the British in the Arras district, and the British bombardment of Zebruggen, the German submarine base on the Belgian coast. In the Arras advance the British captured many prisoners and greatly improved their position.

New York—Remember Louis Arico? . . . you don't?

Well, Louis is barber to William F. Kenney, wealthy golfing and political pal of Al Smith.

About a year and a half ago, you may now recall, Kenney went to London. Soon word got out that he had sent for his barber, Louis Arico, who sailed on the next boat, saw Europe with Kenney and returned with him.

Later on, some complications developed. Arico, the way his hair was combed, it was the shaved by the London barbers. The English hair-cutters were hurt in their professional pride. Kenney then replied that no insult was intended. He merely had promised Louis a trip to Europe and was fulfilling his promise.

Now for the sequel. Louis Arico has been given the barber shop concession in the new Empire State building, owing to Kenney's friendship. It is reported that Kenney is backing him in the new establishment with more than $100,000. It will make Louis a big-time tonsorialist, boss of one of the greatest shops in town.

CONFERENCE ON SILVER URGED BY SEN. BORAH

Response Required from Great Britain to Assure Prompt Action

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—(CPA)—Agitation for an international conference on silver as a means of curing one of the principal causes of the business depression has now been taken up by Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

The senate authorized the calling of such a conference if the president deemed it compatible with the best interests of the government of the United States. It is presumed that Mr. Hoover has been sounding out foreign governments and has not to date received an encouraging response from Great Britain, the principal country involved.

Mr. Borah, in his radio speech over the Collier's hour Sunday night, did not mention Great Britain but he expressed amazement at the delay. He pointed out that the International Chamber of Commerce, as well as the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urges that action be taken on the silver problem and he also quoted the delegates from India and China, the two great silver using countries of the world.

Mr. Borah's speech carried more than a casual significance. It was carefully prepared and undoubtedly was made with the object of arousing world sentiment for a silver conference. He argued that with the purchasing power of China and India suddenly lowered by governmental action, eight hundred millions of people who had more than two thousand years used silver, were impoverished and thus all the countries trading with China and India were affected. The Idaho senator says that people who think this is another effort to revive the sixteen to one question are ignorant of the facts and that when such groups of business men as the International Chamber of Commerce and the United States Chamber of Commerce adopt resolutions on the subject it is an indication that the problem is economic and not political.

The principal point made by Mr. Borah is that the United States and France control about 65 per cent of the world's stock of gold while the remaining 35 per cent, namely about four billions of gold, is left to carry on the business of the rest of the world. In other words, two countries with a population of one hundred and seventy millions of people have 65 per cent of the supply of gold while more than a billion seven hundred and sixty million persons in the rest of the world not only would use silver but desire to use that metal.

Nothing but governmental interference," says Mr. Borah, "can prevent them from using silver. Governments can by legislative act establish the gold standard and declare and make effective that gold shall be legal tender for domestic and foreign debts. But governments cannot by legislative act obtain gold with which these peoples may do business."

Congress here has been importuned by the silver producing states of the west to bring about an international understanding on the use of silver, it being argued that the decline on the market price of silver has been a prime factor in prolonging the present industrial depression. A fall of more than 50 per cent in the gold value of silver has not only reduced purchasing power but in creased the burden of indebtedness. This is the argument made by senators from Nevada, Utah, Colorado, in which the senators of other states, have concurred. In fact the resolution went through the senate by unanimous vote.

"Cotton is our greatest export product," said the senate report on the subject of silver, "and when the value of that product is reduced one half by reason of the reduction in the purchasing power of those people who are the greatest consumers of cotton cloth, then the purchasing power of our citizens engaged in the cotton raising industry is reduced one half. And we see the some effect to possibly less degree on our wheat farmers and our manufacturers."

There is no doubt that Mr. Borah's speech will have the effect of focusing attention on the willingness of Great Britain to enter into a silver conference. It is not a matter of course of concern to Great Britain alone, but is vitally affecting her trade with the United States. To stabilize the value of silver would require action by the British parliament as well as by the Chinese and there are indications that in the next few weeks the subject will receive increasing attention as it is debated. A speech by the chairman of the foreign relation committee of the United States senate is not likely to be passed by without consideration by the diplomats of the world.

Who's Who On The Appleton-Post-Crescent

Number 56

(This is the fifty-sixth of a series of articles about members of the staff of the Appleton-Post-Crescent. The articles will seek to acquaint readers of this newspaper with those persons as individuals and also will discuss the nature of their work. Members of the staff are presented in the order of their length of service. The fifty-seventh article will appear tomorrow.)

Common words that most people misspell, such as rhythm, chaparral, cemetery, separate, parallel and miscellaneous, are just more words to Gladys Steffenhagen, proof reader in the Post-Crescent. She can spot a misplaced letter, misspelled words and punctuation mistakes with a rapidity that is astonishing.

A proof reader is trained to see mistakes as fast as her pencil can travel down the line, correcting the errors in the white margin on the proof sheet. Watching a proofreader gives one the idea that the job is simple because they work so thoroughly and swiftly, reading every word of copy before it goes into the daily paper. Work of this sort calls for an active mind and a concentration that dispels all the numerous noises of the composing room. The clacking of linotypes, the shifting of heavy forms, the noise of metals rubbing together all recede into a general background of conglomerate noise for the proof reader whose mind is entirely on the proof sheet before her.

Mrs. Steffenhagen is called "Steffy" by her fellow workers. She was born in Appleton and attended First Ward and St. Paul's schools and Bowditch Business college. Before coming to the Post-Crescent as proof reader in 1929, Steffy worked at Pettibone's for a year and a half. Her very first job was being a nursemaid to neighborhood children.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO BUILD ROCK GARDENS

Study Must Be Given to Rock Formation and Natural Setting, He Says

Rock gardens and the special arrangement of shrubs in the planting plan were the two subjects discussed by Dr. Franz Aust of the University of Wisconsin horticulture department in the sixth and last of a series of lectures given before the Appleton Post-Crescent landscape gardening class at Appleton vocational school auditorium Monday evening.

The university extension division and vocational school cooperated with the Post-Crescent in staging the school. There were approximately 140 enrollments from Green Bay, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and other neighboring cities.

Dr. Aust explained in his final lecture that considerable study must be given to rock formation and natural setting before a rock garden is constructed. The design plays an important part in the making of a rock garden. Unity, harmony, and successional growth serving as the basic principles.

"The arrangement of the stones should be pleasing to the eye, as well as pleasing to the kinds of flowers which are to be a livelihood from the soil between the various rocks," he said.

"Primroses and similar hardy plants are ideal for rock gardens. Successional bloom can easily be maintained from early spring to late autumn, due to the many varieties of flowers found growing in natural rock settings."

He also explained that the proper placement of stones is necessary to insure adequate drainage, and to maintain soil conditions. He pointed out that it is no easy task to create planting areas between the various stones in the rock garden.

The final lecture was illustrated entirely with stereopticon slides of various types of rock gardens and flowers used in creating successional bloom in the gardens.

It was intimated Monday evening that several members of the landscaping class are anxious to have the course renewed next spring, according to Marshal Graff, extension division representative.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS OUT OF STATE SHOW DROP

Madison—(P)—Although Wisconsin shipments of dairy cattle to other states and countries last month were 227 head above those of March, they were 30 per cent below those of the same month last year, the state department of agriculture and markets announced today.

The total exports for the month were 3,791 head as compared with 3,554 in March and 5,959 in April, 1930.

"During the ten years ending with 1930 a total of 607,940 head were exported from the state in this way, or an average of over 60,000 head annually," the department said.

The high point in out-shipments was reached in 1927 when over 82,000 heads were shipped.

Since 1927 the number exported has declined somewhat, a rather low point of 56,446 head being reached in 1930. For the four months of the present year the exports have amounted to 12,555 head as compared with 13,003 for the first four months of 1930, a decrease of a little over three per cent, due in a large part to the depression.

Prices of Wisconsin dairy cattle have remained constant during the past three months, according to reports received from crop correspondents. While cattle prices have been declining for over a year, they apparently reached a low point in February of this year. An average price of $63 per head is reported as having been received by Wisconsin dairymen for each of the past three months, as compared with $66 per head in January, 1931, and $59 a year ago.

Help Your Child To Be An Artist

BY ANGELO PATRI

Beauty comes high because it is scarce. The law of supply and demand seems to work here as everywhere else. We value what is difficult to get. We value beauty and sigh because it seems so far out of our reach. And it is getting further and further away from us as the machines become more and more powerful and efficient.

The factory can turn out furniture faster than we can wear it out, though that seems to be not too long at that. This furniture is very pretty, very cheap, and makes it possible for young people to start their homes with richer and more elaborate equipment than their fathers and mother ever dreamed of having. But after one has lived with it for a while it seems to lack something. It has not the holding power of real beauty. It has not the touch.

The touch of beauty is the touch of the artists hand. That hand working so skillfully with a glistering tool is the extension of the brain in the development of a thought, through matter. Every movement of that hand is in response to an inflection of a thought and there is shining through it the intangible spirit that is beauty. You will find it in an old hand made chair, an old knotted rag rug, a patchwork quilt that was stitched by hand, in the statues of the Greeks and Romans. What the hand of the artist once touched, lives in beauty forever.

What have we of the machine age to do with this? Much. Without vision a people perish. Beauty is the expression of a vision always. A people who have no hunger for beauty, who have no visions, no dreams that a machine cannot satisfy, are going out. That is not true for us. We of America are hungry for beauty. We are searching for it as never before. The eagerness with which we follow the trail of the antique tells its own story. What we want in the antique is this touch of the hand, this subtle beauty of the spirit handed down from generation to generation that it may strengthen the soul of the race.

There is a hint for educators here. The child who has a gift of the hands, whether he expresses it with a brush, a mallet, a chisel, a pen, should be educated and trained to use that gift for the inspiration of the people. He should be trained as an artist. We cannot afford to lose a single one lest we lose the heaven-born himself.

The artisan finds it easy to get an education, and work. The artist child finds it difficult. As in times of war, his need is not as essential and he must stand aside. Now from where I sit his work is an essential job. The creation of beauty is imperative. We must have it.

Have no fear that an artist will starve to death. The machine age will take care of that. Handwork that touch of inspiration, will be at a premium and he who can produce it can name his own price whether it be a table or a temple, a bit of lace or a fresco. Handmade things are precious now, but the day is coming, and soon, when they will be priceless.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE day after Sarah Slade's party she called Sue.

"Meet me at one at the Silver-Crescent for lunch," she said. "I'm leaving town soon and I'll tell you about it."

Sue found Sarah waiting at a little table at the back of the room, with a rose-shaded lamp making the table rather glamorous and a silver vase with flowers. Sue pretended that it didn't know its rose was made of tissue paper.

Sarah had on a black dress with demure white collar and cuffs and a small black hat that had an intriguing twist to it.

"I'm going away in two weeks," she began right away. "I'm to work in the personnel department of a store. It sounds fairly good. Some woman who's been eating at the hotel offered me the job. So I walked out on the table d'hôte and a la carte this morning. I'm through. What do you want to eat?"

"But what will I do when you're gone?" Sue asked. "There won't be anyone... you and Grace both so far away..."

"I won't be far away. I'll come back for weekends sometimes. And besides, isn't Grace ever coming home?"

"Don't know. She hasn't written for a long time."

But Grace would be coming some time, she knew, and with her would be Jimmy. Good old Jimmy who had spent so many youthful years imagining that it was Sue whom he had wanted to sit behind the percolator at his breakfast table. She would find that Jimmy was happy.

And she was glad that Grace was happy, too. Sue remembered how Grace had loved Jimmy for so long, knowing that he could see only one girl, and that that girl had no more than a friendly interest in him. Grace had been loyal. And after a while things had come right for her. Maybe they would for Sarah. Perhaps there was something in the old maxim that said that any girl could get the man she wanted. She thought of her own romance with Jack. That, too, had seemed hopeless, but it had all worked, right. And for Sarah.

"I think that the handsome young architect who came along with Miles last night is heading for our table," Sarah interrupted Sue's reflections. "He seems nice. Here he is."

Sue found something likable, too, in the disarming smile and boyish air of the man. She also noted that he found Sarah interesting. She didn't care. She was not interested in stray men any longer. Not in that sudden, personal manner that makes a girl look over a new man and put him in one list or the other.

And while the three sat eating ices and talking a great deal about nothing a voice very suddenly came straight over the partition. Sue had seen Barbara and Joan take that table purposely. She knew Sarah hadn't. And Sue knew that every syllable that Barbara's silken voice was uttering was said with the full realization of what she was doing.

"Everyone knows, Joan, that Sarah Slade is making a play for Ted. She has put all her stakes on the table, and she's lost. She won't let go, though. She keeps hanging on the scraps of friendliness that she calls affection. I always thought that she was too intelligent to spend her time in mourning. But she isn't."

Sarah's eyes grew as dark as stormy pools. But when she raised them they had settled and she was smiling.

"Nothing like calling a spade a spade, is there?"

"Or beating someone's game by another," Phil Banning countered quickly. "Will you go to a movie with me tonight?"

NEXT: Sarah Slade plays a new game.

RHEUMATISM IS PUT TO ROUT!

Consider, For Your Own Sake, How This Remarkable Compound Wins Its Victories

There is a real lesson in the experience of Mrs. Clara Binn.

Mrs. Clara Binn, 604 North 10th St., San Antonio, Tex. She says: "I had rheumatism for seven years. Pains accompanied by a very bad cry movement. My stomach was weak. I bloated badly and lost weight steadily. Rheumatism left me after three weeks of the Konjola treatment. My appetite increased and I gained weight."

Now read the statement of Mr. J. R. Carlie.

Mr. J. R. Carlie, 503 South Ninth Street, Waco, Tex. "I suffered for three years with stomach trouble and rheumatism. The pain kept me awake at night. I bloated terribly. Konjola brought me almost immediate relief and today I am free from the pain of rheumatism or stomach trouble. I never hesitate to recommend this wonderful remedy to my friends who need a good medicine."

Konjola is sold here by the Schlitz Bros. Co. Drug Stores.

GRAY HAIR IS LOVELY WHEN TREATED WELL

BY ALICIA HART

European women let their hair grow gray, dress up to it and become distinguished thereby.

America is so bitten by the youth bug that the majority of women here prefer dyed hair to white, hennaed to gray.

It is a matter of personal taste. But there is something softening about gray or white hair that flatters features no longer firm in their young contours. And there is a certain dignity that goes with gray or white hair that a woman in her middle years might do well to cultivate and capitalize. Too little has been written about the allure of the poised contained woman.

If you are letting your hair grow gray or white, remember it can't be done overnight. It takes almost nine months to get the last vestige of dye out of hair. And it often takes several years for hair to become an even gray or even more for it to become pure white.

I know of no reputable lotion that will whiten hair. I know of nothing efficacious except constant, persistent scalp treatment which gets the hair in such a healthy condition that it ceases to be unbecomingly streaky and takes on a new zest and life which more or less makes the color immaterial.

A healthy head of hair is the best possible crown of glory, and if it is turning gray, where is that good old American independence that would toss its head high and say, "What of it?"

Most beauty houses put out preparations to help care for the head that is graying. But don't think these will turn your hair all an even, beautiful gray overnight. Nothing will! You'll have just to keep it washed clean, brushed bright, oiled gleamingly and massaged until it is alert looking and healthful.

In the first place, most graying hair needs far more oil than it did before. Therefore, why not give it to it? An oily scalp tonic is what you need, preferably one that is designated for gray hair.

In the second place, gray hair that lost its curl when you were it dyed can be made to redevelop curls or waves that will do you proud. I've known several women whose hair was brittle, straight, stringy, though colored, who have eventually appeared with enviable curly coiffures that were natural.

The way you wash gray hair has a lot to do with its beauty. Be sure you get the oil out, use fine, bland soap and water, not too hot. And if you get it waved, be sure not to use too hot an iron on it. The more you care for it the lovelier it will be. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: Is it unreasonable of me to expect my husband to remember the date of our wedding anniversary and my birthday, etc. This doesn't sound like a very important problem but, since we've married, my husband who used to seem to be crazy about me, is now absent-minded and forgetful. And he only laughs when I tell him that he has forgotten something which means a good deal to me. If I get angry, he says I nag. How can I help it, if he is constantly hurting my feelings? He never used to act this way to me in the days when I was popular, and he was just one of my beaux.

Probably one of your chief troubles is that you keep remembering the days when you were a riot with the boys and your husband was just another beau. What the popular girl can't seem to realize, when she takes unto herself a mate, is that she isn't marrying a nice permanent steady beau—she's agreeing to be a partner, she's virtually promising to be a willing helper, and a good sport the rest of her life.

Lots of pretty popular girls find after they're married, that they've contracted for more than they ever dreamed of. The belle of the ball finds herself tied to a man who must be helped with all sorts of weaknesses, and if she's a bad sport she lies down on the job and waits. "Why I could have married ANYBODY. Why should I have to put up with this shiftless failure who promised to make me so happy?" But if she's a good sport, she realizes that it's her job to stick around and help, and make the best of what marriage brought her.

You have actually very little to complain of. Maybe your husband isn't the ardent suitor who appears promptly on anniversaries and birthdays, complete with beautiful roses, and a ten pound box of chocolates—but that's really a very mild little failing, when you come to consider it.

You've simply found out that he isn't going to be the permanent beau ideal and it hurts your feelings—but it needn't ruin your life. Be a good sport about it. If you have a good husband who loves you and who is willing to make you happy in all the ways that really count, don't nag and fuss because you're not being treated quite as you were in the good old days.

There are very few men who can remember all the important dates that their wives think they should never forget. Most of them make bad mistakes about these matters—but it's not an over-important point. These slips of memory provide subject matter for trivial arguments, but should not be allowed to form the basis of a Seven Years' War.

Be a good sport and stop thinking about the good old days when you were queen of everything you surveyed, and mere man was in slave. Most of us can remember similar triumphs, and most of us have to learn a lesson or two when we accept the responsibility of marriage.

LEE: Sounds as though you were fighting shy of dance, etc., out of sheer self-consciousness and making excuses for yourself by saying that you don't really like dances any more. Frankly I don't believe you.

You're lucky enough to be invited again and again, in spite of your refusals, and if you really want to enjoy some natural sort of fun, just start accepting these invitations. You'll soon grow out of the habit of self-consciousness.

It's a pity to let shyness and timidity stand in the way of good times. You think you could never enjoy yourself, because so far, your own unfortunate shrinking violet personality has spoiled the fun for you. But don't cut yourself off from a chance of learning how to have a good time.

If you deliberately turn your face away from all these pleasures, there will come a time when you'll bitterly regret having been too proud to admit even to yourself that you wanted a good time, but just didn't know how to have it. Take a chance the next time, and practice enjoying yourself. It will come easy after a while.

A risk no woman should take health risk in ill-made substitutes for Kotex

NO woman should deliberately risk health by using a sanitary pad of doubtful hygienic value. Yet that is what you do, if you accept a substitute because it merely looks like Kotex.

You should ask how this substitute was made. Where? By whom? Would a hospital use it?

Trust no pad that cannot answer these questions to your entire satisfaction. Every woman, at these times, needs the purity of Kotex. Its absolute immaculacy. Kotex is made with hospital care. Its use in hospitals proves that. This assurance is worth everything to you—far more than the few pennies you may save by accepting a substitute of whose makers you know nothing.

Kotex is adjustable. Soft. May be worn on either side with safety.

ONE IN A MILLION

Bycyrus, O. — If all of us were like one man, the world of us all over the country would find their coffers filled to overflowing. E. E. Kaler, member of the fair board, tells of how he met a fellow in town here recently and that worthy turned over to him fifty cents. He told Kaler that he had sneaked into the county fair and drove when a bad without paying and that his conscience had bothered him ever since.

THIS IS ODD

London — A mouse show was held at St. James and the majority of the audience was composed of widows. More of 70 different colors and varieties, some of them worth as much as $500, were on display. There were more than 300 entries in the show, some of the mice being transported from Scotland and Wales.

SIX "WHITE" INDIANS

New York — The sixth Herbert Spencer Dickey Expedition is on its way to Venezuela, to laboriously ascend the Orinoco River in native canoes to seek a race of "white" Indians. Although Dickey is convinced that the strange tribe is a race of descendants of Spanish conquistadores, he expects to investigate thoroughly the origin of its members.

Big "Factory Farm" Doomed By Nature And Low Prices

New Holland, N. C. — (P) — Dickey's greatest "factory farming" project apparently has failed.

Six years and $6,000,000 spent in an effort to reclaim for agriculture the 48,000-acre bed of Lake Mattamuskeet seems to have come to naught.

And now the vast level expanse bids fair to be returned to its original holders—fresh water fish and the Canadian wild goose.

August Hecksher, New York financier and philanthropist, has grown weary of a ceaseless and unprofitable battle against nature in the eastern Carolina flat lands.

Thomas D. Campbell, who has been called the world's largest wheat grower, took personal charge of the giant development last year in an effort to retrieve the millions cast into the one-time lake.

In 1925 the financier was interested in the great reclamation project by D. N. Graves, who first tried it. Giant pumping stations with a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons per minute were constructed and placed in operation. Drainage ditches were cut.

Five thousand acres of the lake silt were devoted to soybeans and other thousands to wheat. As the crops grew it rained. What had been a great level expanse of rich, farming land was reclaimed, but this time by nature.

The pumps were set to work and another crop saved. Success seemed with disaster. In 1929 a 5,000 acre crop of soybeans was reaped.

After four years and millions of dollars of expense New Holland appeared to be successful. Washington, Swan Quarter, Bellhaven and nearby towns boomed with the purchases of the millionaire for further development.

But New Holland, nee Lake Mattamuskeet, felt the business depression just like the rest of the world. Its wheat drop lost value, and its soybeans were beaten down by weather. Its flax proved valueless.

And "finis" apparently was written to August Hecksher's support, when Thomas announced operations would cease at once on the project.

Great rows of modern farm machinery is likely to be sold, the pumps are to stop working, and the waters are to be allowed once more to flow over acres they held inviolate for centuries. The miles of drainage ditches will become merely deeper spots in the lake.

Paris — Jesse Whitman, Chicago lawyer, has a plan to prevent war by limiting population. He has sent a memorial to the league of nations about it and given out a copy here. He would have a survey of economic resources to determine the population limit of a country. Any excess would be in violation of international law.

The Alabama Farm Bureau federation transacted business totaling $17,000,000 in 1930.

Canada is the greatest producer of raw and waste asbestos and the United States the largest consumer.

CONVERSION OF CANADIAN BONDS HOLDS INTEREST

Operation in Adjoining Country Attracts Attention of Wall Street

BY CHARLES F. SPARE
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York — The unique features of the huge conversion operation initiated by the Canadian government have attracted close attention in Wall Street. One of these features is the offer to holders of outstanding bonds, maturing within the next three years, of a new issue which will carry the same interest rate and the same tax exempt privileges—if any—as the bonds they now hold, up until the date of the maturity of the latter. That is to say, holders of the war loan 5's, maturing Oct. 1 next will receive 5 per cent on their new bonds up to Oct. 1 and 4 per cent thereafter. Similarly holders of the 5's maturing in 1932 and of the 5's maturing in 1933 will receive their present income up to the respective maturity dates and 4 per cent thereafter.

This privilege was intended to stimulate the conversion, and probably was necessary to get the operation to that end because none of the outstanding bonds is callable. Old Issue Tax Free One of the old issues, the 5 1/2 per cent victory loan of 1933, is tax free and so coupons on the new bonds exchangeable for that issue will be tax free up to Nov. 1, 1933 and thereafter income from all of the refunding issues will be taxable. There has always been widespread public criticism in Canada of the tax free feature of the war and post-war financing and such criticism probably influenced the government in eliminating that feature hereafter.

The offer to present holders is regarded as extremely attractive in Wall Street. It is a little difficult to compute a yield basis, because of the varying rates of interest, but Monday's quotations in New York for the new bonds maturing in 1936 and callable in 1940 were on a 4.38 to 4.40 per cent basis and for the new bonds maturing in 1938 and callable in 1948 were on a 4.30 to 4.35 per cent basis. The higher quotation for the last named reflects the three years of tax exemption.

It will be interesting to see what effect the success of this operation, which success is not doubted here, has on quotations for outstanding obligations of Canada dealt in on the New York market and payable in United States dollars. Recent quotations for the 4's of 1930 were about 4.40 on a basis and for the 5's of 1932, which are callable at par ten years before maturity, about a 4.28 per cent basis.

Legal In Some States
In the United States these issues, together with the shorter maturity of the 4's of 1936, are legal for savings banks in the state of Connecticut, Maine and Vermont. There is no reason why they should not be legal for savings institutions in other states, but the process of amending the law is a slow and difficult one. It was only after a strenuous campaign that public utility mortgage bonds were admitted to the legal list in New York. With the savings banks still paying 4 and sometimes 4 1/2 per cent on deposits and with funds pouring in from corporate and large capitalists they will either have to reduce the rate or find more remunerative investments than the present restrictive list affords. For this purpose all of the direct obligations of the Canadian government ought to qualify.

As far as the individual goes, it is doubtful whether there is any more attractive high grade security available, price and tax status considered. It is reasonable to believe that the market for Canadian government securities will reflect this fact in increasing degree as time goes on. As it stands today, the supply of the best grade of public utility bonds is steadily decreasing.

The best of first mortgage rails, of which Appleton General 4's is the type, sell to yield only a little more than 4 per cent and all of them are fully taxable to the individual investor. Meanwhile, we have in New York the lowest central bank discount rate in history and we have the world over a commodity price level almost at a record low and which, though now showing signs of stabilization, has yet to indicate recovery.

INVESTIGATION ASKED OF TELEPHONE RATES

Madison—(AP)—A special committee of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities today asked the state railroad commission to conduct a state-wide investigation of telephone rates and service.

The committee is composed of Mayor A. G. Schmiedeman, Madison, chairman; Mayor William J. Swoboda, Racine; Alderman James Pedersen, Marinette; Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee; Sen. E. A. Clifford, city attorney of Janesville; Mayor H. Cohen, Green Bay; member of the city council, and City Attorney L. E. Lurvey, Fond du Lac.

The officials contended that there is little apparent justification for increases in rates and that considerable doubt exists as to the reasonableness of existing rates. The investigation requested by the committee would cover the following points: Valuations of property in view of the decline in price levels and the introduction of labor-saving devices; the reasonableness of the rate of return as compared to other industries not enjoying a monopoly; whether holding company payments are excessive and whether there has been proper allocation of toll charges; whether proper depreciation and obsolete policies have been followed by the companies. Believing it undesirable for each city to singly attempt to protect telephone users, the officials urged that Wisconsin cities cooperate by appropriating a special fund to finance the hiring of engineers for investigations into rates and service.

3 HIGHWAY CONTRACTS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Madison—(AP)—Three highway contracts, amounting to $103,756, were signed today by Gov. Philip LaFollette. Work on the projects, one of which is paving approaches to an over-head now being built, is to begin at once, it was announced. The largest contract—$65,906—went to the S. J. Groves and Sons Co., of Minneapolis. The firm is to grade and drain 5.3 miles of U. S. highways 18 and 16 in Grant and Fenimore counties, between Mt. Ida and Bridgeport. George Neuhann, Fenimore, received a contract for $17,034 to provide gravel for the surface.

The Vandyno overhead on U. S. 41 between Fond du Lac and Oshkosh will have a 28-foot roadway approach under the contract for $35,305 awarded to J. Rasmussen & Sons company, Oshkosh. The project is being partly financed by the Chicago and North Western railway under the grade crossing separation program.

The 76-foot bridge on state highway 13 between Neokosa and Friendship will have all its iron work sand-blasted and repainted under a contract given G. D. Christensen, Wausau, for $2,545.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in Appleton, Thursday, May 14th, at the Conway Hotel from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: "The 'Perfect Retention Shields' hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time."

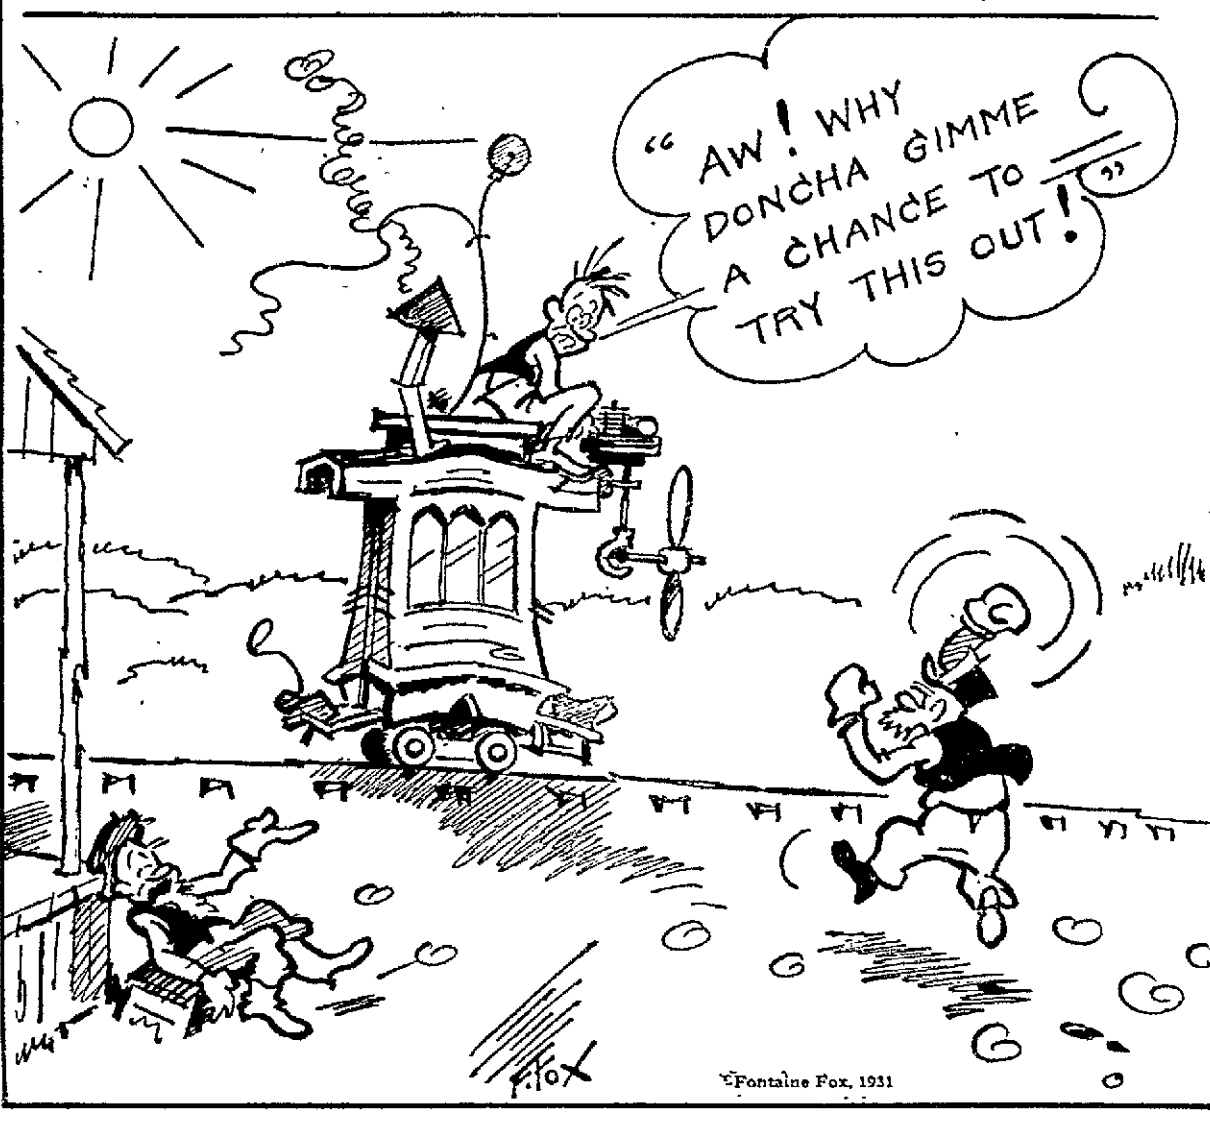

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear. Bring your children. According to statistics 95% recover by our method.

"Radio City" Planned To House Growing Industry

New York—(AP)—Radio, the arousing giant of the entertainment world, is soon to have such a home as a giant needs. The great proposed Radio City is beginning to take concrete shape.

Cast only in miniature so far, this massive project containing three square blocks of buildings, among them three sky-reaching structures, is to bring together under a collection of roof all forms of amusement, from radio assuming the prime position.

That still slumbering adjunct of radio, television, is to be given much consideration. For prophets say that when Radio City is completed by 1934 or 1935, television will be out of the laboratory and well on its way to practicability on a nationwide basis.

An advance showing of models of the proposed city of entertainment, referred to by its designers as Metropolitan Square, gave a clear-cut indication of what its backers believe is in store for radio.

They have planned for a group of nine buildings, one of them to be 65 stories high, containing the new headquarters of the National Broadcasting company, and two others of 45 stories each. Work is to be started this spring, and one of the first buildings to go up will be the central 65-story skyscraper.

Stretching from Fifth avenue to Sixth avenue, and from 43th street to 51st street, the "city" will house upwards of 50,000 employees.

The group will have at least two theaters, one of more than 6,000 seats for sound features such as talking movies, and another almost as large for vaudeville and spectacle presentations.

Introducing to New York's upper Fifth avenue a theatrical district de luxe, Radio City is to be in effect a correlation of every field of entertainment.

Besides the National Broadcasting company, it will house offices of the Radio Corporation of America and RKO, together with RCA Photophone and RCA-Victor recording studios.

FLOATING OX-CARTS CARRY EXPLORERS INTO SOUTH WILDS

Plans Completed for Fourth Expedition to the Grand Chaco

Buenos Aires—(AP)—Application of the "amphibian" principle to ox-carts will mark the fourth expedition of Capt. Luigi Longobardi to the central wildernesses of South America.

The Italian explorer stopped here en route to Lima, Peru, whence his party will head eastward through the Upper Amazon region. Then the group will turn south to penetrate the Grand Chaco territory of Paraguay and Argentina.

Oil is one of the principal magnets for this year's trek. The captain says it oozes out of the ground in western Brazil and that natives smear it over their bodies to discourage mosquitoes from attacking them.

The observation was made in 1926 but not much could be done about the discovery then, because 18 of the 20 members of the expedition were drowned. The leader and one companion finally reached Santos, Brazil, after two years in the wilderness.

This year the party's equipment will include apparatus for petroleum exploration and testing. It also will embrace antidotes for

Phillies Get Five Hits But Beat St. Louis Cardinals, 2 To 1

NATS POUND OUT VICTORY OVER DETROIT TIGERS

Rogers Hornsby Denies He Has Considered Bench-ing Hack Wilson

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

ASTORIA, May 12.—The Philadelphia Phillies, who have been in the lead for several days, today defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1, in a game that was a real test of the Phillies' hitting power.

The result was that they led the National league in hitting and were a strong eighth in the final club standing.

This year, however, Manager Burt Shotton has his boys going at it differently. With such sluggers as Lefty O'Doul and Presco Thompson gone, the 1931 Phils are not getting as many hits, but they are getting them where they count, leaving fewer men on base and winning more games.

For instance, they collected only five hits yesterday, but they cut off the eight-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1. Chuck Klein hit his sixth home run of the year to tie the score in the sixth inning. Then Big Buzz Arlett got on second and Les Mallon, Rookie infielder, brought him in with a lusty double. With Phil Collins turning the Cards round after round, that was all the Phillies needed. Wild Bill Hallahan was the victim of the winners' concern. The Shottonmen reduced the Cardinals' lead over the New York Giants to a single game. Cold weather at New York kept the Giants and Chicago Cubs indoors and gave Manager Rogers Hornsby of the western team a happy opportunity to speculate on what had happened to his hitters. He admitted that being held to eight hits in two games with the Giants was bad business, but denied a rumor that he planned to bench Hack Wilson, the hard hitting outfielder.

Braving the chill winds on the opposite bank of the East river, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Brooklyn Robins got in the day's only other National league contest. Melvin Meile let the Robins down with five hits to give the Pirates their second victory in a row. The Phils punched four hits off Dazzy Vance to score three runs and sew it up in the fourth.

Only one American league tilt survived the epidemic of rain and cold, the Washington Senators burying Detroit under an avalanche of hits, 14 to 4. Osele Bluffs led the 18-hit assault on four Tiger pitchers with a homer, double and two singles. Kuhel had a double and two singles and Joe Cronin a homer and single. Carl Fischer went the route for the Senators to score his third victory.

SAINTS BEAT KERNS IN A. A.'S ONLY GAME

Three More Doubleheaders Are Added to Fast Increasing List

Chicago—(CP)—With every club noticeably strengthened over last year, the American association started its season with prospects of dispensing a lot of good baseball entertainment. The customers may yet see some of it—If the weather ever gives Thomas Jefferson Hickey's circuit a break.

According to the schedule, which opened on April 14, each club should have played 27 games by today. Not one has come close to filling schedule requirements, with two teams, Louisville and St. Paul, nine games in the hole. Milwaukee has had the best luck, having played 21 of its listed games.

The only game yesterday resulted in St. Paul beating back the half game it lost Sunday. The Saints lifted their margin over Louisville to two full games by trimming Toledo, 5 to 2, behind excellent pitching by Maurice Bream, a youngster. The Mud Hens were able to connect for only one hit after the first inning when they then got three for their two runs. Elam Van Gilder nudged for 10 hits by the Saints, four of them by second baseman Jack Saltzger who got a triple and three singles. Anderson came up with a home run and a single.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon K. McIntyre

In a thoroughly unbiased but also entertaining manner, Prof. Cullen Cain, who does the expert delving for the National league, delves into the April baseball figures for information on what, if any, effect the new ball has had on the hitters.

Whether it's due to spring slumps by the hitters or better pitching by the raised seams, Professor Cain finds only 28 regulars hitting 300 or better on May 1 as compared with a total of 48 above that figure on the same date a year ago.

Citing some unusual reversals of form in the comparison of batting figures, Professor Cain comes up with this evidence in favor of the raised seam:

Gaby Hartnett, Chicago slugger, is hitting .245 as compared with .309 a year ago.

Adam Comorosky, Pirate outfield star, .238 and .400, for 1931 and 1930.

Paul Waner, his playmate, .380 and .493, both pretty fair, despite a difference of .113 points.

Bill Hallahan, National league batting king, .326 as compared with .403 a year ago.

Hack Wilson, Cub clouter, .238 and .311.

Frankie Frisch, Cardinal captain, .171 and .311.

Chuck Klein, the Phillie flogger, .308 and .409.

But Look at Hornsby
On the other hand, the professor continues to take the case of Virgil

Theriot, who is hitting .245 as compared with .309 a year ago.

SOPH TRIANGLES WIN FROM 4TH WARD BEARS

Soph Triangle softball team in the Y. M. C. A.'s Senior Boy league upset the dope bucket Monday afternoon and ousted the highly touted Fourth Ward Bears right where it hurts to win a 10 and 6 victory on the Fourth ward diamond.

Both teams started scoring early each getting two runs in the first inning and three in the second. In the third the Sophs stepped ahead with two runs compared to one for the Bears. Three more runs in the fifth sewed up the game for the Sophs and left the Bears reeling.

The Delta H-Y-Sam Orstein Special game was postponed until a later date.

Wednesday the Sophs and Specials will play at Roosevelt; the Dots and Pirates at First ward, and the Bears and Thetas at Fourth ward.

Calling the Strikes

New York—(CPA)—Things haven't shaped up according to the dope in the major leagues, both are getting their regular morning bacon and eggs, but the National league isn't staging the close combat that everybody predicted, while the American league teams are drawing together.

The St. Louis Cardinals are showing a disposition to sprint ahead of the field. Result: Some envious birds in the senior circuit are yawning that "the chain store system of the Cardinals will wreck us before we are through with it." Some folks think a chain is great, but combinations never were great in sport and never will be.

Davis, the mountainous backstop of the Phillies, off at a .552 clip this spring as compared with .219 in 1930.

Furthermore, there's Rogers Hornsby, seeling a merry 409 as compared with a .233 in April a year ago, and his star infielder, Woody English, striking off at .378 as against .262 in 1930.

Others who have revised their batting figures upward with the advent of the new ball include Leach of the Giants, with .335 this year and .266 last season for a starter; Roettger of the Reds, .447 and .393; Spucky Adams of the Cards, .363 and .239; Pinkey Whitney of the Phillies, .321 and .250.

"Close students of baseball," Prof. Cain says, "are likely to declare that many of the men cited here are all hitting over their heads, and that the great hitters cited earlier are for the most part in a batting slump."

Hitting far below the normal stride they are sure to strike as the season wears on.

"All the players are pretty well agreed that the new ball is just as lively as ever when the batter can get hold of it, but the trouble seems to be that the batter cannot now meet the ball squarely as often as he used to, they raised the seams so that the pitcher might make it dance, hop and curve in a more baffling fashion.

"The averages show that many American league sluggers are having more difficulty this year."

Gloomy Flatbush
The drop in batting form among the Brooklyn Robins has been especially conspicuous. For the two April weeks the Robins were in the lead of the comparisons to show why there has been little joy in Flatbush:

1931 1930

The hazards to peace of mind in sport are pretty well known.

"That the physical risk is likewise great is revealed by an insurance company's report that one out of six adult persons injured in accidents of all kinds last year was hurt while engaged in sports and recreational activities.

A quiet afternoon on the golf course, it seems, is apt to be the most dangerous spot in all fields of competition. More adults were injured while playing golf than in any other game, 13 per cent of the total accidents having occurred last year on the links.

"More than 66 per cent of the injuries suffered by golfers were the result of slips and falls on uneven ground," says the report, "while the next largest number of golf accidents was due to being struck by flying objects."

Golfers undoubtedly would consider football much more hazardous, but the rougher and tougher gridiron sport produced only two per cent of the accident quota, as compared with golf's 12 per cent, baseball's 11 per cent, and basketball's five per cent.

Picnics, outings and dancing, if they are included in the recreational field, accounted for 10 per cent of the mishaps and winter sports four per cent.

"The moral, if any, seems to be to take out more insurance if you play golf."

MAY BILL WRESTLING BOUTS AS "EXHIBITIONS"

Chicago—(CP)—The status of heavyweight wrestling in Illinois was up for decision today before the state athletic commission.

The commission had given Jimmy London, recognized in some parts as champion, 10 days in which to agree to a title match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis, recognized as champion in some other parts, in the event London declined to meet Lewis, Major General John V. Ciminin, chairman of the Illinois commission, president of the National Boxing association, said heavyweight bouts would have to be billed as "exhibitions" and not "contests" in Illinois.

CLEVELAND SCENE OF HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT

Cleveland—(CP)—Any doubt that the heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling and W. L. "Young" Stribling would not be held in Cleveland's new municipal stadium July 3 was removed today.

The contract was signed last night by city officials and the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, organized by the promoters.

NEW YORK—(CPA)—Urban Hodapp, the Cleveland second baseman, is the most sensational infielder of the season in the American league. He has been covering more ground than any other infielder and his batting has been hard and timely.

"This bounding keystone sacker is a better batter than when he first began to attract attention several years ago at Plant City, Florida. He was a schoolboy with the Indians and his club then and every major league manager who visited plant city that year looked him over and coveted him, although not all of them would concede that he was any more than a possibility.

"To this day the playing field at Plant City is pointed out as the place where 'that young Hodapp helped lick every major league team that played against Indianapolis.' That is exaggerated a little, but is near enough to the truth to make it a Plant City tradition. If Cleveland wins the pennant the fans at Plant City, between hoisting straws and berries and picking them, will have a grandiose time all next winter and spring discussing it.

To date Hodapp has accepted chances in three games, two in nine, ten in one and eleven in one. That is picking up speed. Only one man leads him in major league baseball. That is Friberg of the Phillies, good old Barney Friberg, who has played about every position for Philadelphia and who took up second base when Mallon had trouble. Friberg has accepted eight chances in four games, two in nine, twelve in one and thirteen in one. He is a good old timer.

Hodapp went to Cleveland from Indianapolis and got a long trial at third base, but the position didn't seem to appeal to him like that of shortstop. He was moved to second and he dropped into it without an effort. Rival managers said he wouldn't be at it, but he has held it, and there are times when he moves around the base with some of the easy grace of old Nap Lajoie.

Anyhow, Roger Peckinpaugh can draw a blue ribbon for making Hodapp a second baseman.

Hodapp has been batting about .350 this year. In trying to get to New Orleans he was most impressive this spring than ever before. He had a better stance at the plate and swung his bat against the center of the ball.

"That boy is going to bat better this year," said a spectator to Walter Nichols, the Cleveland secretary. "than he ever did in his life. Notice how easily he handles his bat this spring? He has got into the right swing with it."

If he keeps it up and if the Indians had a shortstop like him, the take from Cleveland would be mighty busy this fall about world series time.

SCORING five runs in the ninth inning, Appleton Merchants wandered into the win column in the Central Wisconsin league Sunday. The victim was Readfield and the score was 13 and 7. The Merchants connected for 18 hits, five doubles and a walk in the ninth being good for five runs. Appleton took a one run lead in the first inning and added three more in the second. Readfield staged a splurge in the second frame and tied the count at 4 all. The next two innings were scoreless and then Appleton registered twice but Readfield went the boys one better and scored three times. In the eighth frame Appleton pulled ahead with two runs and put the game away with five runs in the ninth.

Wing of the Readfield team distinguished himself at the plate with three hits that pushed five mates across the rubber. He scored two runs himself. There were no out standing stars on the Merchant nine, all the boys getting in a bit of fielding and scoring.

Harvey Buss formerly of the Noffke Puels has been added to the Merchant hurling staff of Laabs and Murphy.

In other league games New London whitewashed Tustin, 4 and 0, as Westphal gave three hits, and Wewauega trounced Shiocton, 10 and 3.

If the weather is unfavorable, the bouts will be held in the Chicago Stadium.

"Bonesetter" Reese Has Fixed Many Ailing Arms

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor
YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Doc Reese is ill.

The famous old "Bonesetter," whose magic fingers have restored to health thousands upon thousands of twisted bodies, now is seriously sick himself—and unable to lay upon himself the hands that seemed to heal others almost miraculously.

Throughout the world thousands of ball players, fighters, football heroes, track athletes and others—the prominent and the lowly in all walks of life—are hoping the Doc wins his game against death. He has been making a brave fight.

The other day Doc Reese, as he is affectionately called here, passed his 76th birthday. May 5 marked the date. It might have been a golden anniversary—for the Doc has been salvaging shattered men for more than 50 years.

At 32 he came to America, an immigrant from Wales. He had learned his art from one of the bonesetters of his native country, an ancient art handed down from father to son for many generations.

"Orthopedic surgery" the medical men call it. But many he has healed believed the Doc worked miracles. Some 25 years ago, a special act of the Ohio Legislature granted him the right to practice according to his methods.

In the years since then thousands of great athletes and famous men and women have come to the house at 219 Park avenue, seeking repair. But they received no greater attention than did a man from the mills who had fallen downstairs while carrying his wife's washing.

Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb, Battling Nelson, Chick Lang, George Uhle, Stanley Coveleskie, Bud Taylor, Rogers Hornsby, Willie Ritchie, Kiki Cuyler, Max Carey—these were some of the men he made whole by the touch of his helping hands.

Doc Reese himself has made no secret of his power. Through the almost uncanny sense of feeling in his fingers he discovered dislocations of muscles, joints and sinews. He possessed great strength and was able to break adhesions by a sudden twist.

The case of Chick Lang, the jockey, furnished an example of the old Doc's remarkable power. Several years ago large soft lumps formed on Lang's wrists. The bonesetter manipulated the wrists gently.

"Does that hurt?" he asked Lang.

"No," was the reply.

Then the bonesetter seized both hands and gave a sudden, terrific jerk that brought Lang to his knees, perspiration spouting from his forehead.

"Did that hurt?" asked the Doc.

"It just about killed me," gasped Lang.

Then the jockey looked at his wrists. The lumps had vanished.

"Just another case of weeping sinews," said the Doc, "caused from turning the wrists while under pressure."

Once Battling Nelson came to the house of wonders in Youngstown.

He had wrecked his hands in a fight with Frankie Whitney in Atlanta, Ga., in the spring of 1913.

When he came to Reese, his hands were hanging from his wrists, loose and powerless.

Reese manipulated them back into shape. Nelson asked what the bill would be.

"Whatever it is worth to you," was Reese's reply.

"It's worth everything I've got," said Nelson.

"What's your name?" asked the bonesetter.

"Battling Nelson," was the answer.

"It cost the man who beat Joe Gans not one dime," replied the Doc. And he shook hands and sent the Battler on his way.

Doc Reese has no sons, but his skill will be carried on by another generation. Of his five daughters—Mary Ann, Sarah, Elizabeth, Katherine and Gertrude—the youngest, Gertrude, has learned much of her father's art.

During the last few years, she has handled many of the patients who came to see the Bonesetter. Many people in Youngstown say she is "almost as good as her dad."

An orphan at 11, a toiler in the steel mills for years, a physician famed throughout the world, the Doc has retained always a feeling of fairness and friendliness for all who came to his door seeking relief. The rich paid him. From the poor he took nothing.

He has straightened a man's neck for a 10-cent cigar. Another patient gave him a costly limousine in thanks.

He has been dear to Youngstown. Late his regular Friday visits to a downtown hotel, where he lunched with old friends and looted the rest of the afternoon, have been missed. Youngstown hopes the Doc soon will resume his weekly holidays.

Sports Question Box

Question—Runners are on first and second. Batter hits to the third baseman, a fair ball. The ball takes a bad hop and when the third baseman tries to field it, it rolls over the back of his ungloved hand and up his arm and into his arm pit. The third baseman presses the ball to his body to hold it. With the ball thus held he runs to third and touches the base. Is the player coming from second to third forced out?

Answer—If the ball is securely held he is out. If the fielder should drop the ball trying to release it from his position, it would be an error.

Question—Runner on first, one out. Batterman swung at the third strike and the catcher missed the ball. On the pitch the runner had started for second and reached it in safety. Batterman also ran to first and reached it in safety as the catcher had thrown to second. Umpires said the batsman was out and sent the runner back to first. Was the ruling right?

Answer—The batsman was out because there was a man on first base when he made his third strike but the runner on second could not be sent back to first.

Question—Does Stanford excel in basketball as in football?

Answer—Basketball at Stanford is not of as high a quality as football because it isn't as popular as football with the students.

Question—When the third out is made before the batter has completed his turn at bat do the balls and strikes count against him when he goes to bat in the next inning?

Answer—They do not.

Your Birthday

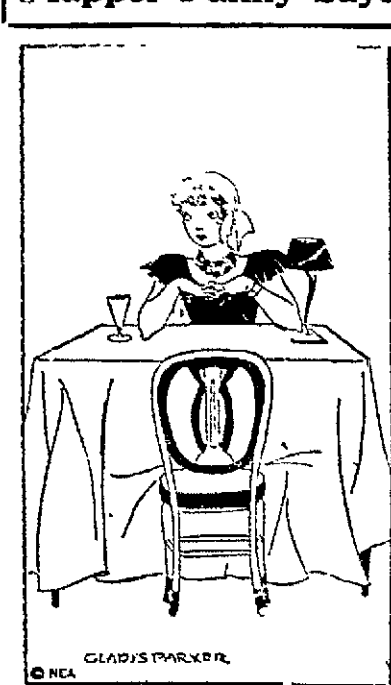

If May 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., from 3:45 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger hours are from 7:45 a. m. to 9:10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:25 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 13th denote negative conditions during the day. After sunset, however, the atmosphere becomes stimulating and extremely favorable for all social efforts. It will also strengthen those who are faint-hearted, and give them the necessary courage to put their fate to the test.

A child born on this May 13th will be kind, loving, sweet-tempered and extremely patient. It will not excel along the usual standardized lines of study, but will be at its best in the open, where it will learn readily to appreciate the beauties of nature, and understand them.

Born on May 13th, you are sincere and very thorough. Your feelings are not variable and you stick to your friends "through thick and thin." You are very frank, and never adopt expediency to further your ends. You are, however, frank in a nice way, and, though others may not agree with you, they are always willing to concede that your opinions are based on honest conviction and not advocated merely for the sake of stubbornness. You are not a quick worker, but you are a very diligent one. Nothing you attempt is done in a slipshod way, everything is done to the best of your ability. You are fond of travel for a change, but not for a steady diet. You always long, when away from home, for the pleasures of your own family circle and for the presence of familiar household gods. You possess personal magnetism, and your ruggedness of character, combined with your charity of mind, attracts and charms.

Your horoscope denotes a fairly successful life, and, most assuredly, a happy one. You will always strive to live up to the high ideals that are continually urging you onward. Your nature is a forgiving one, and your outlook extremely tolerant. Successful People Born May 13th:

EXTEND QUARANTINE MEASURES ON WEEVIL

Madison — (P)—An extension of quarantine regulations against the alfalfa weevil areas of the western states was announced today by Charles L. Hill, chairman of the department of agriculture and markets.

Except under certain conditions no alfalfa hay or other material can be imported into Wisconsin from areas in Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada, California and Oregon.

The alfalfa weevil is apt to be imported into this state not only in hay, but by trucks, automobiles, railway cars, machinery, household goods, and bedding which has not been thoroughly cleaned. All shippers must obtain certificates from the official inspector of their states testifying that all necessary precautions have been taken.

The Canadian government estimates the 1930 dominion wheat crop will total 395,845,000 bushels.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

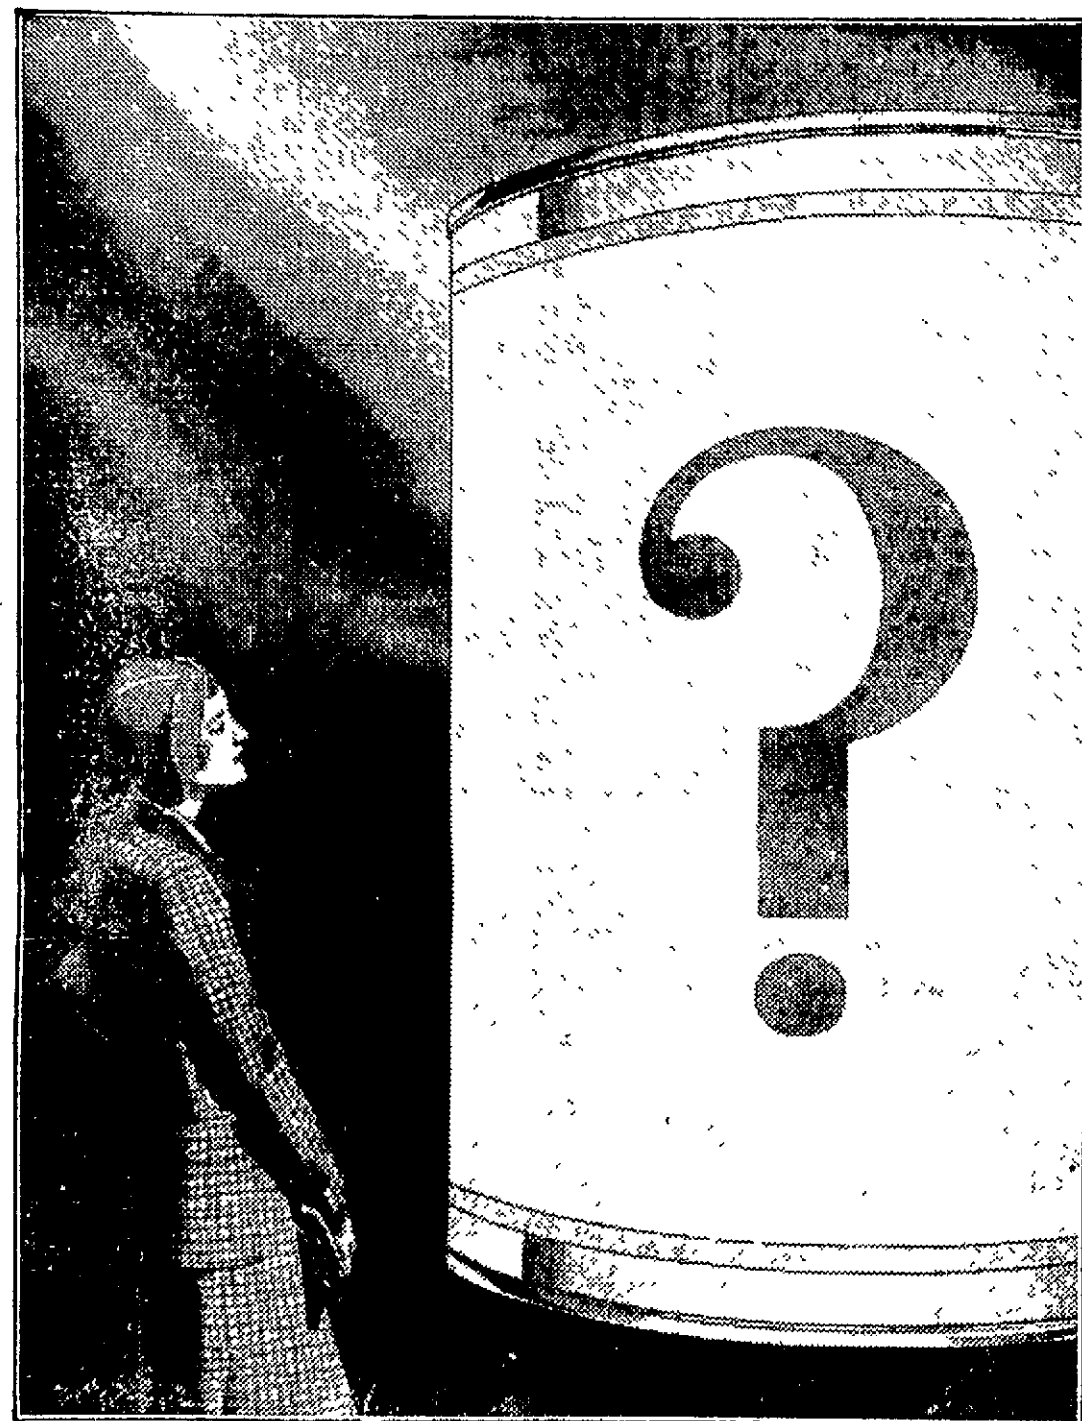

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity. May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 53c at any drugstore in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied — money back. Schintz Bros. Co. 3 Stores; Volgt's Drug Store knows all about Kruschen. Adv.

THE ANSWER TO SUBSTITUTION
IS ALWAYS....
"NO"

HOW CAN YOU JUDGE THE VALUE BEHIND AN UNKNOWN LABEL?

IT IS EASY enough to buy wisely when you can see what you are getting.

But how about those products that you can't see?

Foods, drugs, toilet necessities—all hidden by a bottle or a package.

If you do not recognize the name on the label, how can you judge the value behind it?

You can't!

Shopping experience has proved this to millions of women. But experience uses bitter methods. Costly methods.

When you buy only those products which you see advertised regularly week after week, in newspapers and magazines—when you are guided by the names you know—you are safe.

But when you experiment with untried brands—substitute products which you are told are "just as good"—you may be sorry.

The manufacturer who knows the wisdom of advertising also knows the folly of false claims.

His integrity is the integrity of his product. Your good will is the rock on which he stands. If it crumbles, his success goes with it into dust.

The truthful, consistent advertising of any manufacturer is proof of his pride in the merchandise he offers you.

But it is even more than that. It is his promise of constant quality and definite purity. Of honest weight. Of full value in return for your money and your confidence.

These facts are published by this newspaper in an earnest attempt to help you buy more wisely.

Accurate information is your only positive protection against the many disappointments which often hide behind an unknown label.

Chapter 18
NEWS FROM JULIAN
S Nora stepped out of the limousine before Aunt Em's she found it had begun to rain. Hallie was wedged into a rocking chair in the living room with Dickie.
"I'm to go next week, Hallie!" Nora cried, unable to keep the excitement out of her voice.
"What are they like?" Hallie asked while Alice came to lean shyly against Nora.
"I don't know how to tell you. Damon is cool and lovely. And I wish you could see Mr. Van Vorst. Damon sat at the tea table and only candles were lighted and the twilight came in."
"A bit stager, wasn't it?" her cousin Hallie asked dryly.
"Oh Hallie, how can you? But you would have loved the house! It has immense rooms with high ceilings, books everywhere and white lilacs." She stepped to her breath.
"And Mr. Van Vorst showed me some old books and told me about his horses. That lovely old house! It was built in 1807, and there is an Adam fireplace."
"Well, for my part I prefer a little reality and not so much sweetness and light," Hallie said with a dry smile. But she observed that Nora had not mentioned Joe's name.
Nora laughed helplessly and ran upstairs to take off her things, to look about the bare attic room so scrupulously clean and to give a thankful sigh as she realized that after this week she need never see it again.
There was a letter for her on the bureau.
"That was terrible news, Nora. It did me in for a day. Things have not been going so well with me either. Helen for a mere whim is not going to marry me. The woman has no heart. I came in at dawn one morning and smashed her pretty little watercolor. She said I was drunk. A man doesn't accept a thing like that."
"I miss you, Nora, my own. What splendid lines we used to have. This place now is just a seething mass of damn tourists. I'm going to leave. I might even come home. By the way I've been working like mad since you left. I've done some good things. I have a plan, but of that in my next."
"Julian."
Her father's letter worried her. His preoccupation with himself had made the tragedy negligible. Her poor darling Julian, how would he ever get along without her! It only he had smashed the watercolor before he had planned to marry Mrs. Yavors, what a difference it would have made to both of them. When she came downstairs she saw Aunt Em's wet coat hanging in the hall.
The smell of damp umbrellas was in the air, and a faint odor of a disinfectant hung about Dr. More's office.
Aunt Em looked up as Nora came in, pulling off her wet gray cotton gown. "I hear you're going to leave us next week. It's what you've wanted all the time, isn't it?" she asked mildly.
Nora felt uncomfortable for a moment, under the scrutiny of those lively brown eyes. Did Aunt Em know that she felt pity and even a faint contempt for her father's people? She must be careful to hide it from them these last days as she was to be with them, never realizing how pervasive thought is, how it can create its own atmosphere more subtly than words.
Francis came blowing in, her cheeks rosy, a stream of water trickling from her hat.
"I'm soaking," she cried. "Did you get wet, Mother?"
Aunt Em had been tramping the streets, walking from lesson to lesson but she smiled and shook her head. "Come and kiss me, Dickie. Some one went and took my umbrella from the office. Snatched it, the brute!" Fran cried, throwing off her hat and tossing it down anywhere, brushing back the wet hair from her glowing face.
"I stayed late to type a letter for Mr. Dusenbury. He was so grateful, he told me. And then he drove off in his limousine and left me in the doorway. I met Fergus and he saved my life." Fran ended with a cough she tried to choke down.
Fergus was behind her.
"You'll have supper with us tonight?" Aunt Em asked the young doctor.
He thanked her but said no while Fran struggled out of her wet coat and hugged Dickie.
Nora looked at Fergus more leaning against the door, his hands in his pockets. He was tall and lean, and his clothes so carefully brushed were the worse for wear. He had thick velvety eyebrows and his earnest and rather obstinate face was lightened by gray eyes and a humorous mouth.
"It's awfully good of you," he hesitated, then he added, with excitement, "I had my first patient, today."
"Not," Hallie cried, "is he still living?"
"Don't pay any attention to her, Mrs. Durant, she's jealous of my professional success! To prove it to you—" he brought out a soft and wilted dollar bill and laid it down before them on the table. "My luck is changing. My office is going to be so full of patients that a waiting line will run clear down the steps."
Hallie sniffed. "I'll believe it when I don't see you running around the block with your bag for exercise."
"You didn't know that?" he asked agitated.
Fran cried, "We'll have to celebrate. You will have dinner with us. Wouldn't a big cup of coffee taste good? But we haven't any cream."
They trooped down the stairs to the basement. Dickie as a special treat was allowed to have supper with them; and Nora, and Hallie brought out two more chairs while Fran lit the gas heater. Frances took out the blue willow plates to be warmed. Fergus More came back with the cream and a jar of anchovy paste and a bunch of red carnations.
But Nora had seen the books he had carried with him; and she knew there was a certain way of raising money under the sign of three golden balls.
Nora and Fran were deep in talk while Hallie made caustic comments. Aunt Em was having a low-voiced conversation with Fergus: "When her mother died I told Julian I'd like to take Nora but he said he wouldn't have the child brought up according to middle-class standards," she chuckled with a glance at Nora. "I remember they were living in a wretched tenement at the time. She was such a bedraggled, pretty, little thing. I asked her if she wouldn't like to come to live with me. She answered gravely, 'Oh, no, Julian couldn't get along without me.' She and I went to the grocer's together and she asked the man to charge a bottle of milk and a loaf of bread. The grocer asked when her father would pay his bill. 'My father's an artist and can't be bothered with bills,' she told him. 'A dead beat, you mean, don't you?' Nora turned on him, her eyes blazing, and called him a dirty brute. She was eight at that time. I settled with the grocer and the last I saw of her she was hugging the bread against her chest."
"Mother, what are you saying to Fergus?" Fran cried, "with your heads close together?"
The conversation became general. But Nora was not here with them; she was watching a long room filled with green twilight, seeing a man's fair head bent for a moment, while the scent of lilacs drifted to her.

KELLY WILL SEEK VENUE CHANGE IN AUTOMOBILE CASE

Trial Adjourned by Judge Theodore Berg Until Saturday Morning

Pat H. Kelly, 208 N. State-st. charged with obtaining a car under false pretenses, appeared for preliminary hearing before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday afternoon. After hearing testimony of George Schwab of the Gibson Company, Inc., Judge Berg adjourned the case until 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

A plea for change of venue to the next term of circuit court was asked by Kelly after Stanley Staid, district attorney, finished his examination. Kelly was told to file a petition and present it Saturday. He is being held at the county jail in default of bond of $1,000.

Kelly was arrested last week at his home by Sergeant John Duval and Officers Albert Deitgen and Lester Van Dey. He had been sought since last Saturday, when he purchased a car from the Gibson Co. for $1,150 and gave in payment a check for that amount drawn on the First Wisconsin National bank of Milwaukee. The Gibson company claims the check is worthless.

A warrant was issued for Kelly's arrest last Monday, and the car was recovered last Wednesday from a Green Bay garage where it had been taken early Tuesday following an accident.

Reveal Past Record

An investigation into the history of Kelly, by Police Chief George T. Prim, revealed that Kelly was arrested in 1923 for grand larceny at Santa Barbara, Calif.

He has traveled under aliases, two of his favorites being Henry Lindberg and Harry Stradling, according to a copy of his record, resolved here by Chief Prim from Police Chief J. G. Laudenheimer, Milwaukee.

In 1923 he also was sentenced to six months at San Francisco, Calif., on a grand larceny charge, and for forgery in Los Angeles. On Jan. 16, 1924, he was sent to San Quentin prison for 1 to 14 years, according to Chief Prim. He was paroled in 1925 and on March 25 of that year was sent to Folsom prison in California for breaking parole. Later he was transferred back to San Quentin.

In 1928 he came east and was arrested in Chicago, Ill. Later he came to Milwaukee where on May 10, 1928 he was sentenced to state prison at Waupun for a term of one to three years for grand larceny. He was paroled last year and was sent back to prison for breaking his parole.

MISS PEABODY HONOR STUDENT AT OBERLIN

Oberlin, Ohio—Miss Miriam Peabody, Appleton, is among the highest fourth in scholarship of the senior class of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, it was announced at the annual Oberlin Honors Day program last week. On this day freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior honors are announced, and prizes, scholarships and awards are published. Miss Mary Woolley of Mount Holyoke college, recently voted one of the 12 most distinguished women in America, gave the Honors Day Address.

Miss Peabody, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Harry E. Peabody, 202 E. Lawrence-st., graduated from Appleton high school.

ADJOURN SLANDER CASE UNTIL MAY 23

John Smith, 1215 W. Winnebago-st., charged with malicious slander, appeared in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg for preliminary hearing Monday afternoon. The case was adjourned until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, May 23.

Smith was arrested on complaint of Captain Henry Servais of the Salvation Army, who charges Smith called him immoral names. Smith furnished bonds of $250. He was recently arrested at De Pere on a warrant issued on a complaint of Captain Servais, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. It was alleged Smith cashed a check issued to the Salvation Army. He was arraigned in court at Green Bay and released on bond to be tried here.

AWARD SCOUT HONORS AT CHURCH CEREMONY

William Ogilvie was given his Life scout award, and Howard Bandt received his Star award at a court of honor ceremony conducted for Troop 2 boy scouts at the close of services at First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. Other scouts were advanced in rank, and several received merit badge awards. The awards were made by Dr. J. A. Holmes and Guss Sell, H. H. Brown is scoutmaster of Troop 2.

Samuel Lette, Judson Rosebush, Jr., and John Frank were promoted to first class rank; John Bandt to second class, and John Rosebush and William Spector, tenderfoot. Merit badges went to the Rosebush brothers, Frank, Bandt, Bernard Kottler, and Ogilvie.

TEACHER IS AWARDED SETTLEMENT IN SUIT

A settlement for $110 plus interest was effected in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg last Saturday in the case of Norbert Daul, route 2, Kaukauna, who sued the school board of District No. 1, town of Black Creek for back wages. Daul was formerly teacher at the Hillways school in that district. Suit was brought by Daul in October, 1930, and the case opened in municipal court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann on Dec. 27, 1930. The district board contended that Daul had not taught school for the full month.

In the above deal played by the East with Hearts the trump, the Declarer is enabled to get a very good reading of the hands held by North and South. Such reading is almost as certain at Contract where North does not have an opportunity to show his Clubs as at Auction where the Clubs are shown.

South's secondary Spade bid together with his lead of the King and North's play of the Nine thereon marks South with the King-Queen and Jack of Spades. Since he was the Dealer there is little chance of his having other high card values. Likewise, to make a secondary bid in the face of a Fourth Hand opening bid by East, there is a strong probability of his having originally held six Spades.

At Auction, of course, South might have opened the Jack of Clubs, but since his partner's bid was a delayed one and the Spade lead is so conventionally sound, the latter would seem to be preferable.

As a matter of fact it would make no difference in the results, for while North could make his Ace of Clubs, South would make but one Spade.

The second point, that of card reading, comes from the play of

Soviet Mobilizes Youth To Avert Industry Crisis

By VICTOR G. C. EUBANK

Moscow (CP)—Intensive mobilization of the boys and girls of Russia is under way by the soviet government in an effort to avert what may become a crisis in the monumental five-year-plan of industrialization.

The plan, now in its third year, seems to have encountered a marked slowing up because of a shortage of both skilled and unskilled workmen, but a recruiting campaign has been started to bring the membership of the Communist Youth League up to 4,000,000. This organization, the title of which has been shortened by the Russians to "Comsomol," now has 3,000,000 members.

From these young millions the government hopes to fill the gaps in its industrial ranks, at least temporarily.

Michael I. Kalinin, chairman of the central executive committee of the U. S. S. R., has written that "this year labor has been short in every industry, not even excepting office work, and the labor exchanges have been stricken of all hands."

One of the serious "slow downs" in the five-year-plan is at the Donetz Basin coal mining district. The labor shortage there is no critical that 30,000 "comsomols" have sought as volunteers to go into the mines. There was also a serious shortage of dock laborers at Leningrad which was met by assigning a large number of husky young volunteers to work there.

That the youths of both sexes have been responding freely to the call for aid has been a marked characteristic of the situation. The "comsomols" form probably the most enthusiastically patriotic of all the soviet organizations and the ever vigilant OGPU, or secret police, have been unable to find the slightest taint of counter-revolutionary sentiment among these boys and girls.

They have been reared in sovietism and knew nothing that is good about monarchistic times and ideals. Consequently they are coming to be looked up on as the backbone of the new nation.

In addition to the coal mines and docks, members of the Youth League have been asked to fill in on various other jobs. Already some 50,000 young workers have gone to the timber camps of the north and 7,000 have been placed in the big tractor plant at Stalingrad. The gold mines in the Urals have also been reinforced.

Girls form about 20 per cent of the league membership, but they make up in enthusiasm what they lack in numbers as compared with young men. Their part in the volunteer work campaign has been the taking over of many jobs in factories, for harder places and relieving the pressure to a considerable extent.

Members of the "comsomols" must be between 14 and 23 years of age and must be sons or daughters of proletarian parents. Children of clericalmen, traders, "kulaks" (independent farmers) and of the former aristocracy, are not admitted to the organization.

RAILWAY AND FOREIGN BONDS DISCOURAGING

New York Central Reports $144,913 Loss for First Quarter

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(AP)—News that one of the leading trunkline railways failed to earn its fixed charges in the first quarter of the year gave Wall-street an excuse for gloom today.

Share prices slid slowly downward, as selling was in measure volume, and short covering caused a moderate upturn in the early afternoon. Wall-street was adversely affected, taking some of the brightness out of the bond market. Foreign bonds were also discouraging to bonds.

The Argentine government is putting a financial house in order, and reports of embarrassment of a large Peruvian bank.

New York Central, which reported a small deficit for the first quarter, off about 4 points to an 8-year low. Atchafalpa and Union Pacific dropped about 1 point each.

New York Central first quarter report showed a deficit of $144,913 after interest and charges. The first time in years that this premier carrier has slipped into the red.

Advances estimates had been current, or some time indicating that the road rarely broke even, but actual publication of the figures was an excuse for selling.

The General Motors April sales report was encouraging, showing domestic sales to consumers of 135,663 cars, or roughly 3,000 more than factory sales to dealers. The total to domestic consumers was 34 per cent over March, and only 6,341 under April of last year.

Total sales to dealers, however, were 1,000,000, showing a gain in stock market. The total of April, 1931, advance figures on last week's crude oil output were also favorable, indicating a reduction of 9,692 barrels in average daily output, the best curtailment in some years.

The monthly copper statistics, however, were less favorable, showing small gains in stocks and metals. The monthly copper statistics, however, were less favorable, showing small gains in stocks and metals.

DEMAND FOR LIGHT HOGS REMAINS HEAVY

Sales Tuesday Reported 10 Cents Higher Than Monday's Average

Chicago—(AP)—Some of the demand for light hogs that was not satisfied yesterday, when there were not enough around in the late market, was felt in the early trading today, and as a result, sales were 10 cents higher than Monday's average, in the first few hours of trading.

Weights within the range of 150-200 lbs sold at $7.25-7.35, and the top was $7.40, against $7.30 Monday. The run of 19,000 was slightly more liberal than last Tuesday's but the two-day total at Chicago stands 9,000 smaller than for the same time last week.

The heavy and medium weight best steers could be disregarded, the outlook for the cattle market today would be uniformly bright, as there were only moderate supplies of light steers and of she stock. But unfortunately beef steers again made up the bulk of the run, and there were also numerous loads held over from the slow market Monday, further to complicate things.

Quality was not as good as the average, and indications were that a price range of $7.00-8.00 would take almost all heavy steers on hand. Dressed beef at all eastern centers, and at Chicago, moved to lower prices on Monday, and demand was uniformly sluggish, so that no hope of improvement in live steers was in sight.

Only 8,000 lambs were offered for sale today, after packers had reported 6,200 direct out of the run of 14,000, and again buyers found themselves forced to enter into competition for their supplies. Packers were anxious to avoid any high priced lambs and confined their early purchases to kinds at $3.50 down.

A few were held for the small packers and shippers at $3.85 or better, but there was no sale at this figure. The Redwings at the twelve largest markets totaled 55,000, against 51,400 last Tuesday, bringing the total for the week to date to 119,000, exactly the same as a week ago.

WHEAT TRADERS WATCH DROUGHT IN U. S., CANADA

No Moisture Reported Overnight and Selling Pressure Is Absent

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(AP)—Higher prices for grains resulted largely today from absence of selling pressure and from continuance of Canadian drought reports. No moisture overnight was noted anywhere in the Canadian prairie provinces. Montana and the Dakotas were also generally without rain.

Wheat closed irregular at a shade decline to 3 advance, May old $2.2; July $2.22, corn 1 1/2 off to 1 up, May old $1.1; July $1.12; oats unchanged to 1/2 higher and provisions 1/2 to 3/4 down.

Corn was moderately active and prices averaged higher with professional traders mostly on the buying side and offerings light. Selling against offers checked the bulge. July showed a tendency to gain on the September at times whereas old May was inclined to act tight. The forecast was for generally fair and somewhat warmer weather tomorrow, but conditions regarded as beneficial for crops. Shipping demand was fair, and country offerings small.

In some quarters, the inference was drawn that disposal of 35,000, 000 bushels of out-of-position wheat by the federal farm board had long ago been discounted, and that stoppage of emergency stabilization measures by the board had also been fully allowed for as a market factor. Helping later to bring about fractional upturns in prices were reports indicating continued drought in Canada.

European advices emphasized scantiness of home grown supplies of wheat and the apparent necessity of liberal importation of French and Canadian requirements of wheat from abroad were especially mentioned as of substantial proportions. Use of foreign wheat in Great Britain was also reported heavy, with stocks decreasing. Corn and oats sympathy with wheat firmness and were responsive to the fact that corn arrivals in Chicago totaled but 30 cars.

Provisions sagged owing to lack of demand.

DODGEVILLE MAN LOSES BANK CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Ordered to Pay Defunct Institution $12,187 to Aid in Liquidation

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court today upheld a circuit court ruling that William J. Perry, Dodgeville merchant, must pay $12,187.18 to the defunct City and Farmers' bank of Dodgeville to aid in its liquidation.

The lower action was brought by C. F. Schwenker, state banking commissioner, before Judge S. E. Smalley, who found for the banking department on June 6, 1930. Mr. Schwenker sought to collect three notes, Judge Smalley gave judgments on two of them, but dismissed the third along with counter claim of $1,200 filed by Mr. Perry.

According to testimony in the lower court, the City and Farmers' bank was closed Jan. 14, 1927, because the cashier, V. T. Williams, had mis-handled the funds. Williams committed suicide the day the bank closed.

In 1920, Williams, a nephew by marriage, joined Mr. Perry in buying the Dodgeville Produce company. At the time of purchase Williams did not have sufficient money, and testimony showed he persuaded Mr. Perry to borrow $5,000 from the bank and credit it to the cashier's account. The note was renewed each year, Williams paying the interest. Seven years later, Mr. Perry became dissatisfied with the conduct of the produce business and sold out to Williams.

The cashier paid him in part with a $5,000 certificate of deposit. Perry cashed it, depositing $1,200 in the bank.

After liquidation of the defunct institution was started, Mr. Schwenker filed suit to recover the $5,000 loan, which he claimed had been paid by the cashier with bank money. He also sought to recover the $5,000 for the bill of deposit "unpaid by the cashier."

He won judgment for both these claims, but lost a third claim. Perry filed a cross complaint for the $1,200 he had on deposit in the bank from the bill of deposit, but it was dismissed.

RAIL LEADERS WOULD PUSH UP FREIGHT RATES

Agree That Decrease in Wages Should Be Last Step in Adjustment

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press Chicago—(CPA)—Executive heads of fifty of this country's leading railroads, exhibiting a "marked unanimity of purpose," have decided to order a survey of the present freight rate structure with a view to increasing revenues 10 per cent.

The railroad officials, who concluded their meeting here last week let it be known that upon the reaction of the interstate commerce commission toward their forthcoming proposal, would depend action upon other means of remedying present conditions.

There was agreement that wages should not be affected until every other means of adjusting railroad income had been tried. But four major avenues of expenditure are involved—interest, taxes, supplies and wages. A spokesman for the executives pointed out that interest and taxes are fixed, supplies have been cut to the bone, leaving wages as the one adjustable item.

Emphasis, however, was placed on methods for increasing revenue. Adjustments of the rate structure, not on a horizontal basis, but by items, if decided on a basis to increase gross revenues ten per cent, would provide an additional $400,000,000. Of this amount the roads point out that $160,000,000 would go to railroad labor, now idle. Much of the remainder would go to labor employed in equipment industries.

Wouldn't Talk Cuts
"Nobody would talk wage reductions," one executive said. "It was the opinion that wage cutting would simply continue the vicious circle. Twenty per cent of labor in the United States is directly or indirectly dependent upon the railroads."

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was appointed head of a "literary committee" which will study the advisability of a rate increase and shape a resolution to be presented to the interstate commerce commission. A rough draft spoke of "the emergency which exists as to credit and income" of railroads. It was emphasized that interest must be earned one and one-half times to keep in good standing the two billions in railroad bonds held by insurance companies and the billion held by savings banks. Earnings have decreased to a point where this status is jeopardized, further accentuating the need for action, in the opinion of the executives.

The aggregate income of all roads last year, a spokesman said, had been 33 per cent on the total investment compared with 53 per cent which the transportation act sets up as a "fair return." Since 1920 when the last general revision in railroad rates was made, permitting a 40 per cent increase, there has been a continuous effort to reduce the tariffs until now the increase of that year has been whittled to 25 per cent. There have been 5,000 rate decreases out of a total of six thousand adjustments, railroad officials assert.

The general tenor of expressions made by the executives was that any effort made to improve the position of the carriers would have a marked effect in supplying the spark which would bring back prosperity.

"The raise in freight rates in 1920 helped us out of the depression in 1921," one executive said. "We believe that an adjustment now will have a similar effect."

INITIAL SURVEY OF HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETED HERE

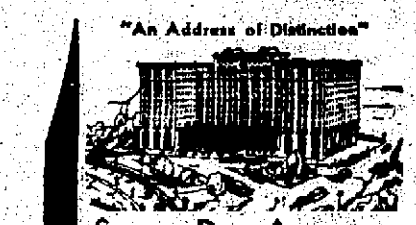

System of Registration, and Student Schedule Studied by Expert

Dr. B. Lamar Johnson of the Office of Education, Washington, D. C., made the initial survey of Appleton high school last Thursday and Friday, studying the advanced registration and student schedule procedure at the high school. This is a part of the detailed, three-year study of selected secondary schools in the United States conducted by the Office of Education of the Department of the Interior under a $225,000 appropriation by congress.

Appleton is the smallest city in the group included in the study. Dr. Johnson has visited high schools in Bridgeport, Conn., McKeesport, Tenn., Detroit, Mich., and Milwaukee. He came to Appleton from Milwaukee and proceeded to Minneapolis, Omaha, Neb. and Denver, Colo. high schools also are included in the group. Dr. Johnson plans to finish the survey before summer under Leonard V. Koos, University of Chicago, who is chairman of the procedure. The results will be published in the fall by the Department of Interior.

In connection with the survey work every high school student filled out a detailed questionnaire concerning his activity in and outside of school.

Dr. Johnson first discovered Appleton high school in a recent survey published in book form by Roswell C. Puckett, director of high schools in Toledo, O., and summer school professor of education at the University of Iowa. This is a survey of more than 200 high schools in the United States dealing with the problem of schedules. "Making a High School Schedule of Excellence" is the name of Puckett's book. It was the mention of Appleton high school throughout the book that attracted Dr. Johnson.

GRAY TO REVIEW LAND SITUATION

Address Will Be Delivered to American Forestry Association

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—A former resident of Wisconsin and member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. L. C. Gray, chief of the Bureau of Land Economics of the Department of Agriculture, will discuss America's land situation before the 56th annual meeting of the American Forestry association at Asheville, N. C., early in June.

Dr. Gray was in Madison for five years, from 1908 to 1913. He took his doctor's degree in economics at the University in 1911 and for the following two years, was an instructor in the economics department.

His talk will particularly stress the southern Appalachian region of this country. Great national problems such as land utilization, flood control, soil erosion, state and federal forest and park administration, and protection of wild life will be discussed at the meeting on June 3, 4 and 5.

The American Forestry association is the oldest forest conservation organization in America, being established in 1875. A number of interesting field trips including Mt. Pisgah, Pisgah national forest and Great Smoky national park are planned. Commemorating the coming George Washington bicentennial, a walnut tree from Mount Vernon will be planted in Asheville during the meeting by a group of boy scouts. Federal and state officials and experts will address the meeting.

There haven't really been any new shrinkless denims "discovered." The "discovery" that overall manufacturers DID make was that unless they quickly adopted shrunk denims, Oshkosh B'Gosh would run away from them completely!

For, you see, Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls have been made of "Mill-shrunk, No-fade" denim for 20 YEARS!
